This Transcript has not been proof read or corrected. It is a working tool for the Tribunal for use in preparing its judgment. It will be placed on the Tribunal Website for readers to see how matters were conducted at the public hearing of these proceedings and is not to be relied on or cited in the context of any other proceedings. The Tribunal's judgment in this matter will be the final and definitive record.

IN THE COMPETITION APPEAL TRIBUNAL

Victoria House, Bloomsbury Place, London WC1A 2EB Case No. 1241/5/7/15(T)

13 May 2016

Before:

THE HON. MR. JUSTICE BARLING

Sitting as a Tribunal in England and Wales

BETWEEN:

SAINSBURY'S SUPERMARKETS LIMITED

Claimant

- and -

(1) MASTERCARD INCORPORATED (2) MASTERCARD INTERNATIONAL INCORPORATED (3) MASTERCARD EUROPE S.P.R.L.

Defendants

(1) VISA INCORPORATED (2) VISA INTERNATIONAL SERVICE ASSOCIATION (3) VISA EUROPE LIMITED (4) VISA EUROPE SERVICES INCORPORATED (5) VISA UK LIMITED

Applicants

Transcribed by Beverley F. Nunnery & Co. (a trading name of Opus 2 International Limited) Official Court Reporters and Audio Transcribers 25 Southampton Buildings, London WC2A 1AL Tel: 020 7831 5627 Fax: 020 7831 7737 (info@beverleynunnery.com)

HEARING (Applications for Documents)

APPEARANCES

Miss Sarah Love (instructed by MdR) appeared for the Claimant.

Miss Dinah Rose QC and Mr. Jason Pobjoy (instructed by Milbank, Tweed, Hadley & McCloy LLP) appeared for Visa International and Visa Inc.

Mr. Daniel Jowell QC and Miss Anneli Howard (instructed by Linklaters LLP) appeared for Visa Europe Ltd, Visa UK Ltd and Visa Europe Services Inc.

The First to Third Defendants did not attend and were not represented.

1 THE CHAIRMAN: Good morning, Miss Rose, are you kicking off? 2 MISS ROSE: I am kicking off. I appear today with Mr. Pobjoy, and I am for Visa Inc and Visa 3 International, who are the first and second applicants in this application. Then Mr. Jowell 4 QC and Miss Howard are for Visa Europe and Visa UK, and Miss Love is for Sainsbury's. 5 MasterCard do not appear. You will have seen a short skeleton argument from them, and 6 also a letter that they sent last night. I do not know if that was also copied. 7 THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, I have got that. That is about the exhibits. 8 MISS ROSE: That is about the exhibits, yes. Can I, first of all, take you to our application, 9 which is at tab 1 of the hearing bundle. You can see from para.1 that we are applying under 10 para.9.66 of the CAT Guide to Proceedings, and what we are seeking are copies of the non-11 confidential versions of the closing submissions, factual witness statements and the expert 12 reports referred to or quoted in open court in the Sainsbury's v MasterCard case. 13 Just to deal immediately with the issue of the exhibits, you will see that we are not in this 14 application seeking exhibits. 15 THE CHAIRMAN: That is what I thought. 16 MISS ROSE: That is correct. So it is fair, and I think this is what sparked the concern of 17 MasterCard, that there was a paragraph in Mr. Jowell's skeleton argument which indicated 18 that they might seek exhibits. I think that was probably triggered by the position of 19 Sainsbury's saying, "On no account, shalt thou have any exhibits". I think that probably set 20 that hare running. The position is this: at the moment we are only applying for the factual 21 witness statements, expert reports and closing submissions. 22 THE CHAIRMAN: I think there are between 50 and 60 ring binders, none of which are marked 23 up for confidentiality. 24 MISS ROSE: There are obviously issues of proportionality, as MasterCard rightly point out. 25 Our position is this: once we have looked at those materials, it may be that there are some 26 underlying documents that we think we really need to see. 27 THE CHAIRMAN: Leaving on one side the question of whether it is party disclosure or non-28 party disclosure, there is no reason, is there, why that application would not be made to the 29 Commercial Court. That is a matter for the future. 30 MISS ROSE: It is not a matter we need to deal with today. I just want to make it clear that we 31 reserve our position in relation to the exhibits, but we are not seeking an order. 32 THE CHAIRMAN: Could I just put out a provisional thought on that? If, when you read 33 everything, you or Mr. Jowell do form the view that you want to see some of the documents

2 specific disclosure application in the proceedings. That is a provisional thought. 3 MISS ROSE: We will bear that in mind, but I do not comment on it. 4 THE CHAIRMAN: No, of course. 5 MISS ROSE: Today we are only looking at statements. 6 THE CHAIRMAN: That narrows everything down quite dramatically. 7 MISS ROSE: It narrows it very dramatically, Sir, because the submission that I intend to make is 8 that it is very clear from the case law that where witness statements have been referred to in 9 open court, and witnesses have been cross-examined on them, and where the witness 10 statements have been ordered to stand as evidence-in-chief, non-parties, members of the 11 public, are entitled to see those witness statements. In the olden days, before people had 12 witness statements----13 THE CHAIRMAN: It was all read out. 14 MISS ROSE: Not even read out. Those witnesses would have been examined in chief, and 15 anybody sitting in court would have been entitled to listen to what they said and write it 16 down. Therefore, what the courts have done is to grapple with a situation in which, for 17 reasons of efficiency and speed, instead of having full examination-in-chief, evidence-in-18 chief has been given by way of witness statement. We submit it cannot be the case that a 19 member of the public, or a non-party, should be prejudiced by that change in practice 20 which was done purely in the interests of efficiency. The intention was not to make matters 21 secret which previously would have been dealt with in open court, and which are 22 fundamental to the open justice principle. So that is the witness statements. 23 We submit that the case law establishes that exactly the same is true in terms of counsel's 24 written submissions, because similarly until perhaps 15, 20 years ago there were not 25 skeleton arguments, and people used to turn up in court and make oral openings and oral 26 closing submissions. Gradually, over the past quarter century or so the practice of ever 27 increasingly elaborate written open and closing submissions has come to complement and, 28 in many places, partially supersede all openings and closings. Again, exactly the same issue 29 arises that matters that are done for the efficient management of proceedings cannot be 30 permitted to erode or subvert the principle of open justice which is that everybody has the 31 that are exhibited, it is my current view that that application ought to be made by way of a right to hear what material is put before the judge, what arguments are being put before the judge and, therefore, better to understand the court's ultimate decision.

1

32

THE CHAIRMAN: And does it matter from your point of view, there are some nuances in some of the cases about what the reason is, why people want it, it seems legitimate journalistic reasons are fine.

MISS ROSE: Yes.

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

12

13

30

31

32

- THE CHAIRMAN: And there are one or two dicta here and there that suggest that if you want them just to see whether you want to bring up the proceedings or for use in other proceedings then that is a bit more dubious. But the principle of open justice, the use of it, as I understand your skeleton argument, effectively indicates it does not really matter.
- MISS ROSE: That is right and I will show you the case law in a little detail now because that issue has been raised by Sainsbury's, and my submission is that what the case law actually shows is that the question that has been controversial, and over which there have been different views expressed, is not about witness statements or closing submissions, all courts have accepted right from the outset that those go.
- 14 What has been a matter of debate is the question of exhibits or documents that are on the 15 court file, and a case that my learned friend, Miss Love, has relied on in her skeleton 16 argument, the Dian case, is concerned not with witness statements, or closing submissions 17 but with a party that was seeking access to the whole of the court file. What you can see in 18 the outcomes that they were ordered to be provided with materials that had been read out in 19 court but not with affidavits that had never been read out in court, so that is the key 20 distinction, and that is the context in which that issue of purpose becomes significant. On 21 the other side of it, the Guardian News and Media case is a case where a document that had 22 been used in criminal proceedings was being sought by the Guardian and there the fact that 23 it was a journalistic purpose made it particularly important.
- But, and this is important, even the older authorities, which I am about to show you, make it clear that witness statements and opening and closing submissions are in a different category, and in particular make it very clear that most people who want to know what is going on in court are going to be people who have a commercial interest because they are involved in related proceedings. The court says specifically, that is not a reason not to provide the materials. Can I just show you----
 - THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, I think Mr. Justice Moore-Bick, in that case you mentioned, he said open justice is not engaged if you are simply using it for that, but I am not sure that is really the view that has caught on much.

33 MISS ROSE: No, it is not.

1	THE CHAIRMAN: Indeed, it would seem a little odd if it did because if a member of the public,
2	from idle curiosity, as it were, wants to know and it seems that would not be a hopeless
3	application, although it might involve some proportionality questions. It is probably the
4	most common reason apart from journalism, when people want things because it affects
5	some proceedings that they have on foot or they have in mind.
6	MISS ROSE: Sir, that is right, and that is specifically addressed in the cases but, in any event, we
7	submit that what Mr. Justice Moore-Bick (as he was then known) was saying was
8	specifically in the context of an application for access to the whole of the court file, not
9	addressing the question that is before you.
10	Can I just show you the relevant case law at a relatively rapid canter. First of all, the rule
11	under which we are applying, if you take up the authorities bundle and go to tab 2, p.133,
12	you can see the heading "Public access to correspondence and pleadings", and if you go to
13	para.9.66, that is the application that we are making. You can see that the categories of
14	documents that are specifically referred to there are pleadings, skeleton arguments, witness
15	statements and expert reports that have been referred to or quoted in open court. We are not
16	asking for pleadings, we are asking for skeleton arguments, witness statements and expert
17	reports.
18	THE CHAIRMAN: You are not asking for the pleadings.
19	MISS ROSE: No, we are not asking for pleadings, we are just asking for the closing submissions,
20	the factual witness statements and expert reports. The obligation is to make a non-
21	confidential copy available to a non-party.
22	THE CHAIRMAN: Just pausing for a moment before we dive into the cases, Miss Rose, to some extent you have been pushing at an open door as it is not in dispute, as I understand it, that 24	extent you have been pushing at an open door as it is not in dispute, as I understand it, that you can have these documents. There is a timing question, which I think is related to the 24 25
23
	you can have these documents. There is a timing question, which I think is related to the
25	you can have these documents. There is a timing question, which I think is related to the fact that perhaps all of the other proceedings are split trials. Then there is a use point, which
25 26	you can have these documents. There is a timing question, which I think is related to the fact that perhaps all of the other proceedings are split trials. Then there is a use point, which I have not fully grasped yet. In principle, it seems to be accepted that you should have
25 26 27	you can have these documents. There is a timing question, which I think is related to the fact that perhaps all of the other proceedings are split trials. Then there is a use point, which I have not fully grasped yet. In principle, it seems to be accepted that you should have them, because you are only asking for the non-confidential versions, in any event.
25 26 27 28	 you can have these documents. There is a timing question, which I think is related to the fact that perhaps all of the other proceedings are split trials. Then there is a use point, which I have not fully grasped yet. In principle, it seems to be accepted that you should have them, because you are only asking for the non-confidential versions, in any event. MISS ROSE: Sir, that does not appear to be quite right. I think, so far as the factual witness
25 26 27 28 29	 you can have these documents. There is a timing question, which I think is related to the fact that perhaps all of the other proceedings are split trials. Then there is a use point, which I have not fully grasped yet. In principle, it seems to be accepted that you should have them, because you are only asking for the non-confidential versions, in any event. MISS ROSE: Sir, that does not appear to be quite right. I think, so far as the factual witness statements and expert reports related to liability are concerned, it would appear to be
25 26 27 28 29 30	 you can have these documents. There is a timing question, which I think is related to the fact that perhaps all of the other proceedings are split trials. Then there is a use point, which I have not fully grasped yet. In principle, it seems to be accepted that you should have them, because you are only asking for the non-confidential versions, in any event. MISS ROSE: Sir, that does not appear to be quite right. I think, so far as the factual witness statements and expert reports related to liability are concerned, it would appear to be Sainsbury's position that they are content for us to have them, but not until the date in June
25 26 27 28 29 30 31	 you can have these documents. There is a timing question, which I think is related to the fact that perhaps all of the other proceedings are split trials. Then there is a use point, which I have not fully grasped yet. In principle, it seems to be accepted that you should have them, because you are only asking for the non-confidential versions, in any event. MISS ROSE: Sir, that does not appear to be quite right. I think, so far as the factual witness statements and expert reports related to liability are concerned, it would appear to be Sainsbury's position that they are content for us to have them, but not until the date in June when expert reports are to be exchanged, and I am going to come back to that point.
25 26 27 28 29 30 31 32	 you can have these documents. There is a timing question, which I think is related to the fact that perhaps all of the other proceedings are split trials. Then there is a use point, which I have not fully grasped yet. In principle, it seems to be accepted that you should have them, because you are only asking for the non-confidential versions, in any event. MISS ROSE: Sir, that does not appear to be quite right. I think, so far as the factual witness statements and expert reports related to liability are concerned, it would appear to be Sainsbury's position that they are content for us to have them, but not until the date in June when expert reports are to be exchanged, and I am going to come back to that point. So far as the quantum documents are concerned, Sainsbury's are prepared to provide them

- 1 with their quantum documents in the Commercial Court. We say that stance is completely 2 misconceived, and I am going to come back to it.
 - Can I first deal with the law, and then I am going to come to the actual areas of dispute in this case. I have just taken you to 9.66. I should very briefly flag up Rule 102 of the CAT Rules, which is at tab 1. I think this was raised with the CAT last week. We have had an opportunity to think about it a bit further, and, in fact, it does not seem to us to be entirely on point, because what Rule 102 is about is what used to be called the implied undertaking. Where there has been disclosure of documents in proceedings, the rule is that they may only be used for the purpose of those proceedings until they have been referred to in open court, at which point that restriction on use goes.
- The point is that here we are not concerned about documents that have been disclosed at all. 12 The documents that we want are witness statements created by parties and then, as it were, 13 having the status of evidence-in-chief to the Tribunal, and the submissions of counsel. So 14 those, we submit, are not actually categories of documents that fall within 102. They fall 15 properly within 9.66 of the CAT Guide.
 - THE CHAIRMAN: There is also a slight curiosity as to whether there is a restriction in 102(1), which is what governs, so far as I can see, 102(1) to 102(4), as to whether that restriction applies to the documents. These are not documents, for example, supplied - the documents you want from Sainsbury's were not supplied to Sainsbury's.
- 20 MISS ROSE: Exactly, that is the point.

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

16

17

18

19

- 21 THE CHAIRMAN: They were supplied by Sainsbury's.
- 22 MISS ROSE: They are not even documents supplied by Sainsbury's. They are the evidence of 23 Sainsbury's.
 - THE CHAIRMAN: They were created by Sainsbury's.
- 25 MISS ROSE: Yes, they are the evidence of Sainsbury's witnesses and submissions of their 26 counsel.
- THE CHAIRMAN: And MasterCard do not object. 27
- 28 MISS ROSE: MasterCard are not objecting.
- 29 THE CHAIRMAN: I am not sure whether that restriction is in play.
- 30 MISS ROSE: That is also my view. We are, I think, squarely within 9.66. Just to take you to the 31 relevant case law, the first case is at tab 4A of your bundle, which is GIO Personal 32 Investment Services. Before we come to the case, can I just summarise for you what we say 33 are the four propositions that we get from this case law. First, the principle of open justice 34 requires----

1	THE CHAIRMAN: Is this in your skeleton?
2	MISS ROSE: Not in these terms, so let me just give you these four propositions. First, the
3	principle of open justice requires that the public should be able to scrutinise both the written
4	and oral evidence and argument upon which the court has been invited to arrive at its
5	decision.
6	Second, the achievement of that purpose requires that a public observer should be afforded
7	access to the same written submissions and witness statements that have been furnished to
8	the judge and referred to in open court.
9	Third, that the motive of a non-party for seeking access, and in particular where that motive
10	is to inform itself for the purposes of other or related litigation, is not a reason for refusing 11	the application.
12	Fourth, in order for there to be any restriction on the provision of witness statements and
13	written submissions used in open court, the party seeking the restriction must show that
14	there is some prejudice which would be caused by full disclosure which is sufficient to
15	outweigh the normal considerations of open justice. We say that, typically, this would be
16	the protection of confidential information or the privacy rights of vulnerable witnesses.
17	This would generally be dealt with by redaction or anonymisation.
18	Those are four propositions.
19	Can we now come to the case law. The first case is GIO Personal Investment Services
20	Limited at 4A. Can I just take you to the headnote, you can see the ratio of the case:
21	"A person who is not a party to an action is entitled to inspect, in accordance with
22	[the Rules of the Supreme Court] witness statements ordered to stand as evidence-
23	in-chief, but the entitlement does not extend to documents referred to in such
24	statements."
25	This is the origin of the controversy which you will see played out in the case law about
26	underlying exhibits.
27	"Skeleton arguments or trial bundles which are not required to be filed and which
28	are returned to custody of the parties at the end of a case are not generally available
29	for inspection or copying. However, where any member of the public"
30	Note that, any member of the public -
31	" applies for a copy of counsel's written opening or skeleton argument which
32	has been accepted by the judge in lieu of an oral opening, he is prima facie entitled
33	to it."

1	If you then go to the beginning of the judgment at 986, you can see in the first paragraph
2	that FAI General Insurance Company, who were seeking various documents including
3	underlying exhibits, were seeking them because they were involved in similar proceedings.
4	It says:
5	"The contracts of reinsurance were made via a chain of brokers The same chain
6	of placing brokers was involved in placing a number of reinsurance contracts, the
7	subject matter of the trial before Timothy Walker J."
8	So this was a situation of a commercial party involved in related litigation seeking witness
9	statements, skeleton arguments and exhibits in order to deploy them in other litigation.
10	THE CHAIRMAN: Yes.
11	MISS ROSE: If you then go to p.988 you can see that provision of the witness statements was
12	ordered by the first instance judge, that is between letters G & H, so the witness statements
13	were no longer in issue when the case got to the Court of Appeal. What was in issue, as you
14	can see at the bottom of the page was: (i) Documents referred to in the witness statements
15	and (ii) any written opening skeleton argument or skeleton submissions to which reference
16	was made by the judge, and exhibits referred to in the skeleton arguments, so that was what
17	was concerned.
18	If you go over the page at 989 D, you can see the heading "Documents referred to in the
19	witness statements" and there is a discussion about the application of principles for that, and
20	that need not concern us.
21	Written openings, skeleton arguments and the documents referred to therein, that is towards
22	the bottom of 991 and there is first a discussion about the status, it records Mr. Leveson (as
23	he then was) his submissions and whether they are technically public documents.
24	Then if you go to p.994, you can see it is recognised under A that his case had to be made
25	on the basis of the inherent jurisdiction of the court to govern its own procedures, and in
26	particular to give effect to the principle of open justice.
27	So the open justice principle is recognised as the underlying rationale for the application in
28	relation to skeleton arguments.
29	Then there is a summary of all the classic authorities on open justice which I do not intend
30	to detain you with, Scott v Scott and so on.
31	Then, if you go over to p.995 at F the court says: "So far as concerns documents which form
32	part of the evidence or court bundle" so that is talking about exhibits:

1	" there has historically been no right, and there is currently no provision, which
2	enables a member of the public present in court to see, examine or copy a
3	document."
4	So that is the approach taken in this judgment to documents. Then, at H:
5	"On the other hand, the argument for such an exercise in respect of the written
6	submissions of counsel, or skeleton arguments which are used as a substitute for
7	oral submissions, seem to be a good deal stronger."
8	Then there is a discussion of the primary but limited purpose of the open justice rule, and
9	then below A it is said:
10	"The confidence of the public in the integrity of the judicial process as well as its
11	ability to judge the performance of judges generally must depend on having an
12	opportunity to understand the issues in individual cases of difficulty."
13	Then there is a citation from Harman. "This is particularly so" says Lord Justice Potter at
14	C: "in a case of great complication where careful preliminary exposition is necessary to 15	enable even the judge to understand the case."
16	Then at D:
17	" the introduction in the Commercial Court, followed by general
18	encouragement, of the practice of requiring skeleton arguments prior to trial
19	was, as the name implies, aimed at apprising the court of the bones or outline of
20	the parties' submissions in relation to the issues."
21	Then at E:
22	"If, as in the instant case, an opening speech is dispensed with in favour of a
23	written opening (or skeleton argument treated as such) which is not read out, or
24	even summarised, in open court before the calling of the evidence, it seems to me
25	impossible to avoid the conclusion that an important part of the judicial process,
26	namely the instruction of the judge in the issues of the case has, in fact, taken place
27	in the privacy of his room and not in open court. In such a case I have no doubt
28	that, on application from a member of the press or public in the course of the trial,
29	it is within the inherent jurisdiction of the court to require that they be made
30	available to such applicant a copy of the written opening or skeleton argument
31	submitted to the judge.
32	In exercising his discretion, Timothy Walker J seems to have regarded the
33	particular interesting purpose of FAI in seeking to obtain copies of counsel's
34	written submissions, namely, to obtain a full understanding of the issues and to

1	identify the documents going to those issues, and the possible subject for subpoena
2	in parallel litigation, as a reason to refuse access which he might otherwise have
3	been disposed to grant to a differently motivated member of the public. Yet, quite
4	apart from the interests of the press (who are members of the public for this
5	purpose) most persons who attend a trial when they are not parties to it or directly
6	interested in the outcome do so in furtherance of some special interest, whether for
7	purposes of education, critique or research, or by reason of membership of a
8	pressure group, or for some other ulterior but legitimate motive. It does not seem
9	to me the purpose of FAI in this case was in any sense improper."
10	So that is where the court says it is perfectly legitimate to want the material, so you
11	understand the issues and see what documents might be relevant for other parallel
12	proceedings.
13	"In my view, the appropriate judicial approach in a complicated case is to
14	regard any member of the public who for legitimate reasons applies for a copy of
15	counsel's written opening or skeleton argument, when it has been accepted by the
16	judge in lieu of an oral opening as prima facie entitled to it."
17	We say there is nothing in any of the subsequent case law that detracts from that basic
18	proposition. If I can just rapidly take you through it.
19	The next case is the Law Debenture Trust case. This is also dealing with written openings
20	and this is in the context of the case which had settled and where the written openings made
21	serious allegations of fraud, some of which had not been pleaded, so there were interesting
22	discussions about what happens if it is settled, and what happens if the opening goes beyond
23	the pleaded case.
24	For our purposes, if you go to para. 22, this is another case where the motive was to seek
25	information for use in parallel litigation, similar allegations of fraud. At para.22 you can
26	see a useful summary of the principles derived from GIO, which we would gratefully adopt,
27	save to say, of course, you do not need to worry about inherent jurisdiction because yours
28	comes from the CAT Guide which has the status of a Practice Direction.
29	THE CHAIRMAN: No one is taking any point on jurisdiction.
30	MISS ROSE: No, indeed, in the Guardian News and Media case the Court of Appeal said that all
31	courts, even statutory tribunals have inherent jurisdiction to do what is necessary for open
32	justice. We say that is a useful summary of the principles. There is then a lengthy citation
33	from GIO.
34	Then if you go para. 29:

1	"It is thus essential for a court invited to exercise its inherent jurisdiction to grant
2	to a non-party access to written skeleton or outline submissions to investigate what
3	part they are playing or have played in the trial."
4	i.e. that means the skeleton arguments not the party.
5	"For example, there can be little doubt, in my judgment, that if a case settles before
6	the hearing commences but after the judge has read the submissions, the
7	jurisdiction should not be exercised. In such a case no observer of a public hearing
8	would have been denied knowledge of submissions made at that hearing by reason
9	of their having been committed to writing.
10	Where, however, the hearing commences and counsel provides the judge with
11	written submissions which are not read out in court or not fully read out and the
12	hearing ends in a judgment, there can equally be little doubt that the court's
13	discretion ought to be exercised in favour of access. The non-party observer will
14	otherwise have been deprived of the whole or part of that which was submitted to
15	the judge."
16	Again, this, of course, in the context of a party seeking for the parallel proceedings. Then at
17	para. 34:
18	" it is clear from the authorities that the essential purpose of granting access to
19	such documents is to provide open justice"
20	It is said at the end of that paragraph:
21	" the public policy of openness requires that the outside observer should be
22	given access to these materials in the course of the hearing before judgment If
23	such an order is appropriate before judgment in an ongoing trial, there is no logical
24	objection to such an order where, as in the present case, the hearing proceeded for
25	several days and then settled."
26	So whether or not it is during the trial the same principle applies. Then we come to the
27	case on which Miss Love relies, the Dian case, at tab 5. If you look at the headnote, you
28	can see that this was not an application limited in the way that ours is. The applicant, non-
29	parties to an action, sought permission to inspect the whole of the court file and to take
30	copies of documents which might be of assistance to any subsequent litigation. So they
31	wanted to trawl through the whole of the court file where the documents had or had not
32	been referred to in open court. That is the essential distinction between the Dian case and
33	the ones we have just been looking at. If you look at the holding on the same page, the

1	applications were allowed in part. CPR 5.4 - that is the provision in the CPR that allows
2	parties to inspect the court file with the permission of the court:
3	" did not entitle an applicant to seek the permission to search the whole of the
4	court file to see what it contained and to copy anything it considered to be of
5	interest; that the applicant must identify with reasonable precision the documents
6	in respect of which he sought permission and lay before the court the grounds upon
7	which he sought it; that in the case of documents read by the court as part of the
8	decision-making process, the court ought generally to lean in the favour of
9	allowing access in accordance with the principle of open justice, but it should not
10	be as ready to give permission to search for, inspect or copy affidavits or
11	statements that were not so read and should only do so if there were strong grounds
12	for thinking that it was necessary in the interests of justice."
13	Although you are right that there is some dicta from Mr. Justice Moore-Bick in this
14	judgment where he suggests it has not got much to do with open justice you will see that
15	actually his decision is founded on the principle of open justice, and the orthodox notion
16	that where material has been read in open court it should be provided.
17	If we then go to the relevant passages, you can see the application that was made at para. 12
18	being for the whole of the court file.
19	Then at para. 28 he recognises the importance of open justice and then at para. 29 he
20	considers the authorities we have just been looking at, GIO and Law Debenture Trust, and
21	he makes the point that:
22	" as the use of written rather than oral procedures have become more
23	widespread, the courts have recognised that it is necessary to give the public access
24	to documents that contain material that has been placed before the judge, but not
25	read out in open court The two most obvious categories are statements of
26	witnesses who are called to give evidence at trial and advocates' skeleton
27	arguments. Both were considered in the GIO case and the position of skeleton
28	arguments was considered again in the Law Debenture Trust case Without
29	access to material of this kind a member of the public attending the hearing could
30	not form any reliable view about the propriety of the decision-making process."
31	We say that is exactly this case, that is what this case is about. Then he says:
32	"In my view, however, this has a limited bearing on the first of the two issues
33	before me."
34	If you go back to para. 22, you can see what the issues were. The first issue at para. 22 is:

1	" whether a person who seeks permission to search the court record is
2	required to identify with some precision the document or documents he wishes to
-3	search for, inspect and copy, or whether he is entitled to ask the court for the
4	whole of the file to see what it contains."
5	It is in that context that he says that he does think that this principle has only a limited
6	bearing. He says:
7	"It could be argued that the principle of open justice demands that the court records
8	be open to all and sundry as a right in order to enable anyone who wishes to do so
9	to satisfy himself that justice was done But that has never been the law."
10	Then, at G:
11	"The principle of open justice is primarily concerned with monitoring the decision
12	making process, not reviewing the process long after the event."
13	It is in that context that, at para. 31, this is the passage that is relied on by Miss Love, the
14	action was in 1994, concluded in 1996.
15	"Alfa has no interest in the performance of the judicial function in that case It
16	simply seeks permission to use the court file as a source of potentially useful
17	information to assist it in other litigation. That does not in my view engage the
18	principle of open justice."
19	So what is said not to engage the principle of open justice is a request to search the whole of
20	the court file including materials that were never read out in court. That, we say, has no
21	bearing on this case.
22	Then, when you come on to the actual decision that Mr. Justice Moore-Bick made, you can
23	see that that distinction is made by him. At para. 56 he says:
24	"In the present case, although Alfa is not interested in whether justice was properly
25	administered in the Dian case, I think it does have a legitimate interest in obtaining
26	access to documents on the court record insofar as they contain information that
27	may have a direct bearing on issues that arise in the litigation in the Caribbean. I
28	did not accept the submission that the link is too tenuous Moreover, I think that
29	in the case of documents that were read by the court as part of the decision making
30	process, the court ought generally to lean in the favour of allowing access in
31	accordance with the principle of open justice as currently understood"
32	He specifically acknowledges and relies on open justice in relation to documents that have
33	been read out. Then at para. 57 he takes a different view in relation to documents that have
34	not been read by the court. This was a case where there had not actually been an open court hearing, there had only been hearings in chambers and the matter had settled, and one can see that the judge's approach in that context and in the context of a request for the whole file, but it does not in any way detract from the basic principles laid down in GIO and the Law Debenture case, both of which are cited.

Tab 6 is the well-known Binyam Mohamed case, which I do not need to take you to. It is, of course, a classic statement of the overwhelming importance of open justice as a principle. What it reflects is how, in recent years, in cases like Mohamed and (Guardian News and Media) and also Al Rawi in the Supreme Court, senior judiciary have given increasing importance and prominence to the principle of open justice, as the Government has sought to erode it by invoking national security. Indeed, five or ten years ago courts would often have acceded to requests from the parties for hearings to be heard in private which they now would not accede to because of the interests of the public and the press, so there has been a general shift, a cultural shift in favour of open justice, but it does not concern us here because what we are asking for is completely orthodox.

- 15 If we then go to tab 7, this is another case relied on by my learned friend, Miss Love. This 16 is the British Arab Commercial Bank case. We can see that this was an application, again a 17 party involved in related litigation seeking access to copies of witness statements and 18 exhibits.
- If you then go to para. 13 we can see that GIO is relied on and the judge finds on that basis that the witness statements must be provided. Then he takes a different approach to exhibits at paras. 18 and 19, which, again, need not detain us.
 - Then if we go to tab 9, Nestec, another case my learned friend relies on.

THE CHAIRMAN: You are skipping Guardian?

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

12

13

14

22

23

24

25

26

27

28

29

MISS ROSE: Yes, Guardian News and Media again is a classic restatement of----

THE CHAIRMAN: That seems to me to be perhaps the most helpful of all, it is set out in considerable detail.

MISS ROSE: It is. Again, in the context of an application for a document and not for a pleading, the passage goes from para. 69 down to para. 88. The particular passage I would draw your attention to is at para. 85:

30 "In a case where documents have been placed before a judge and referred to in the 31 course of proceedings, in my judgment the default position should be that access 32 should be permitted on the open justice principle; and where access is sought for a 33 proper journalistic purpose, the case for allowing it will be particularly strong.
34 However, there may be countervailing reasons . . . should not look for a standard

1	formula The court has to carry out a proportionality exercise which will be
2	fact-specific. Central to the court's evaluation will be the purpose of the open
3	justice principle, the potential value of the material in advancing that purpose and,
4	conversely, any risk of harm which access to the documents may cause to the
5	legitimate interests of others."
6	Absolutely, but, caveat, that is not talking about witness statements or skeleton arguments,
7	it is talking about underlying documents. So that is actually moving the law in relation to
8	underlying documents forward, but again it is further than I need to go.
9	THE CHAIRMAN: It is helpful, para. 69, it indicates the scope of the principle to all tribunals
10	exercising the judicial power of the State and so on.
11	MISS ROSE: Yes, and at para. 70 it applies to all Tribunals. Then tab 9, Nestec . This is another
12	case of a party seeking documents for litigation, but in the
13	THE CHAIRMAN: Mr. Justice Birss' case, yes.
14	MISS ROSE: Another non-party.
15	THE CHAIRMAN: That is really an exhibit case.
16	MISS ROSE: It is an exhibit case. At para. 3:
17	"The documents in issue are documents which were exhibits to evidence or were
18	documents which were put to witnesses during the course of cross-examination at
19	the trial DEMB wish to run the same prior use attacks in the EPO. They want
20	the documents in order to bolster and assist them in that attack."
21	At para. 5 you can see that:
22	"DEMB has copies of the skeleton arguments and witness statements and experts'
23	reports from the proceedings. Some of them were produced as a result of an order I
24	made today. The reasons for that order were given at the hearing this morning and
25	there is no need to elaborate in this judgment."
26	Then he comes back to that question of the skeleton arguments and witness statements as
27	opposed to exhibits, and if we turn to para. 27:
28	"It seems to me that obtaining copies of documents of the kind in issue in this case
29	raise different questions from access to witness statements, experts' reports and
30	skeleton arguments, as Potter LJ explained in the GIO case. Third parties are given
31	access to documents like skeletons, witness statements and experts reports because
32	the idea is that the trial is in public and a person could sit in court and hear what is
33	said they could write it down and they could quote and reproduce it. The modern

2justice."3We say that is a very good summary of the principle in relation to those documents. "But copies of other documents raise different considerations". That is, as it were, the GIO approach to other documents. That is controversial, partly because of (Guardian News and Media) and partly because of the following case NAB, which is also about underlying documents. In NAB there is a finding that GIO is no longer good law in the light of subsequent case law.9THE CHAIRMAN: Is that in relation to documents again?10MISS ROSE: Yes, that is in relation to documents, and there is a full discussion of the case law.11If you go to para. 28 you can see the citation of GIO on the issue of documents, and at para. 29 he says he does not think they are good law. We may have to have an argument about this at some future date and I just flag it for that reason, but it is not relevant to what we are dealing with today.15THE CHAIRMAN: I hope it is not going to be in this Tribunal.16MISS ROSE: Inope not, no. Sir, we say the law is extremely clear and that these are core documents which would originally have been dealt with orally because of proceedingal developments they are now submitted to courts in writing, but that cannot be a reason for impeding public access to them. That, we say, is the heart of the fallacy of Sainsbury's approach in this case, because Sainsbury's made a choice. First, they made a choice to bring proceedings against MasterCard in 2012 and against Visa Europe in 2013, a year later.26There was never any attempt by Sainsbury's to argue that those two separate sets of proceedings should be case managed together. Sainsbury's, therefore, chose to engage in litigation in a situation where it knew that it would be dealing with issues that wer	1	paper-based approach to proceedings should not provide a fetter to that open copies of other documents raise different considerations". That is, as it were, the GIO approach to other documents. That is controversial, partly because of (Guardian News and Media) and partly because of the following case NAB, which is also about underlying documents. In NAB there is a finding that GIO is no longer good law in the light of subsequent case law. THE CHAIRMAN: Is that in relation to documents again? MISS ROSE: Yes, that is in relation to documents, and there is a full discussion of the case law. If you go to para. 28 you can see the citation of GIO on the issue of documents, and at para. 29 he says he does not think they are good law. We may have to have an argument about this at some future date and I just flag it for that reason, but it is not relevant to what we are dealing with today. THE CHAIRMAN: I hope it is not going to be in this Tribunal. MISS ROSE: I hope not, no. Sir, we say the law is extremely clear and that these are core documents which would originally have been dealt with orally because of procedural developments they are now submitted to courts in writing, but that cannot be a reason for impeding public access to them. That, we say, is the heart of the fallacy of Sainsbury's approach in this case, because Sainsbury's made a choice. First, they made a choice to bring proceedings against MasterCard in 2012 and against Visa Europe in 2013, a year later. They have pursued those proceedings in separate courts. The Visa proceedings were commenced in the Chancery Division and then transferred to the commercial Court. The MasterCard proceedings commenced in the Chancery Division and transferred to this court. There was never any attempt by Sainsbury's to argue that those two separate sets of proceedings should be case managed together. Sainsbury's, therefore, chose to	2	justice."
5In the product of the following case NAB, which is also about underlying documents. In NAB there is a finding that GIO is no longer good law in the light of subsequent case law.9THE CHAIRMAN: Is that in relation to documents again?10MISS ROSE: Yes, that is in relation to documents, and there is a full discussion of the case law.11If you go to para. 28 you can see the citation of GIO on the issue of documents, and at para. 29 he says he does not think they are good law. We may have to have an argument about this at some future date and I just flag it for that reason, but it is not relevant to what we are dealing with today.15THE CHAIRMAN: I hope it is not going to be in this Tribunal.16MISS ROSE: I hope not, no. Sir, we say the law is extremely clear and that these are core documents which would originally have been dealt with orally because of procedural developments they are now submitted to courts in writing, but that cannot be a reason for impeding public access to them. That, we say, is the heart of the fallacy of Sainsbury's approach in this case, because Sainsbury's made a choice. First, they made a choice to bring proceedings against MasterCard in 2012 and against Visa Europe in 2013, a year later. They have pursued those proceedings in separate courts. The Visa proceedings were commenced in the Chancery Division and then transferred to the Commercial Court. The MasterCard proceedings commenced in the Chancery Division and transferred to this court. There was never any attempt by Sainsbury's to argue that those two separate sets of proceedings should be case managed together. Sainsbury's, therefore, chose to engage in litigation in a situation where it knew that it would be dealing with issues that were not identical but similar to the issues that arise in the Visa proceedings on	3	We say that is a very good summary of the principle in relation to those documents. "But
6Media) and partly because of the following case NAB, which is also about underlying documents. In NAB there is a finding that GIO is no longer good law in the light of subsequent case law.9THE CHAIRMAN: Is that in relation to documents again?10MISS ROSE: Yes, that is in relation to documents, and there is a full discussion of the case law.11If you go to para. 28 you can see the citation of GIO on the issue of documents, and at para. 29 he says he does not think they are good law. We may have to have an argument about this at some future date and I just flag it for that reason, but it is not relevant to what we are dealing with today.15THE CHAIRMAN: I hope it is not going to be in this Tribunal.16MISS ROSE: I hope not, no. Sir, we say the law is extremely clear and that these are core documents which would originally have been dealt with orally because of procedural developments they are now submitted to courts in writing, but that cannot be a reason for impeding public access to them. That, we say, is the heart of the fallacy of Sainsbury's approach in this case, because Sainsbury's made a choice. First, they made a choice to bring proceedings against MasterCard in 2012 and against Visa Europe in 2013, a year later.25They have pursued those proceedings in separate courts. The Visa proceedings were commenced in the Chancery Division and then transferred to the Commercial Court. The MasterCard proceedings commenced in the Chancery Division and transferred to this court.26proceedings should be case managed together. Sainsbury's, therefore, chose to engage in litigation in a situation where it knew that it would be dealing with issues that were not identical but similar to the issues that arise in the Visa proceedings on a faster timescale and i	4	copies of other documents raise different considerations". That is, as it were, the GIO
7documents. In NAB there is a finding that GIO is no longer good law in the light of8subsequent case law.9THE CHAIRMAN: Is that in relation to documents again?10MISS ROSE: Yes, that is in relation to documents, and there is a full discussion of the case law.11If you go to para. 28 you can see the citation of GIO on the issue of documents, and at para.1229 he says he does not think they are good law. We may have to have an argument about13this at some future date and I just flag it for that reason, but it is not relevant to what we are14dealing with today.15THE CHAIRMAN: I hope it is not going to be in this Tribunal.16MISS ROSE: I hope not, no. Sir, we say the law is extremely clear and that these are core17documents which would originally have been dealt with orally because of procedural18developments they are now submitted to courts in writing, but that cannot be a reason for19impeding public access to them. That, we say, is the heart of the fallacy of Sainsbury's20approach in this case, because Sainsbury's made a choice. First, they made a choice to21bring proceedings against MasterCard in 2012 and against Visa Europe in 2013, a year later.25There was never any attempt by Sainsbury's to argue that those two separate sets of26proceedings should be case managed together. Sainsbury's, therefore, chose to engage in27litigation in a situation where it knew that it would be dealing with issues that were not28identical but similar to the issues that arise in the Visa proceedings on a faster timescale and </td <td>5</td> <td>approach to other documents. That is controversial, partly because of (Guardian News and</td>	5	approach to other documents. That is controversial, partly because of (Guardian News and 8subsequent case law.9THE CHAIRMAN: Is that in relation to documents again?10MISS ROSE: Yes, that is in relation to documents, and there is a full discussion of the case law.11If you go to para. 28 you can see the citation of GIO on the issue of documents, and at para.1229 he says he does not think they are good law. We may have to have an argument about13this at some future date and I just flag it for that reason, but it is not relevant to what we are14dealing with today.15THE CHAIRMAN: I hope it is not going to be in this Tribunal.16MISS ROSE: I hope not, no. Sir, we say the law is extremely clear and that these are core17documents which would originally have been dealt with orally because of procedural18developments they are now submitted to courts in writing, but that cannot be a reason for19impeding public access to them. That, we say, is the heart of the fallacy of Sainsbury's20approach in this case, because Sainsbury's made a choice. First, they made a choice to21bring proceedings against MasterCard in 2012 and against Visa Europe in 2013, a year later.22They have pursued those proceedings in separate courts. The Visa proceedings were23commenced in the Chancery Division and then transferred to the Commercial Court. The24MasterCard proceedings commenced in the Chancery Division and transferred to this court.25There was never any attempt by Sainsbury's to argue that those two separate sets of26proceedings should be case managed together. Sainsbury's, therefore, chose to engage in27<	6	Media) and partly because of the following case NAB, which is also about underlying
9THE CHAIRMAN: Is that in relation to documents again?10MISS ROSE: Yes, that is in relation to documents, and there is a full discussion of the case law.11If you go to para. 28 you can see the citation of GIO on the issue of documents, and at para.1229 he says he does not think they are good law. We may have to have an argument about13this at some future date and I just flag it for that reason, but it is not relevant to what we are14dealing with today.15THE CHAIRMAN: I hope it is not going to be in this Tribunal.16MISS ROSE: I hope not, no. Sir, we say the law is extremely clear and that these are core17documents which would originally have been dealt with orally because of procedural18developments they are now submitted to courts in writing, but that cannot be a reason for19impeding public access to them. That, we say, is the heart of the fallacy of Sainsbury's20approach in this case, because Sainsbury's made a choice. First, they made a choice to21bring proceedings against MasterCard in 2012 and against Visa Europe in 2013, a year later.22They have pursued those proceedings in separate courts. The Visa proceedings were23commenced in the Chancery Division and then transferred to the Commercial Court. The24MasterCard proceedings commenced in the Chancery Division and transferred to this court.25There was never any attempt by Sainsbury's to argue that those two separate sets of26proceedings should be case managed together. Sainsbury's, therefore, chose to engage in27litigation in a situation where it knew that	7	documents. In NAB there is a finding that GIO is no longer good law in the light of
10MISS ROSE: Yes, that is in relation to documents, and there is a full discussion of the case law.11If you go to para. 28 you can see the citation of GIO on the issue of documents, and at para.1229 he says he does not think they are good law. We may have to have an argument about13this at some future date and I just flag it for that reason, but it is not relevant to what we are14dealing with today.15THE CHAIRMAN: I hope it is not going to be in this Tribunal.16MISS ROSE: I hope not, no. Sir, we say the law is extremely clear and that these are core17documents which would originally have been dealt with orally because of procedural18developments they are now submitted to courts in writing, but that cannot be a reason for19impeding public access to them. That, we say, is the heart of the fallacy of Sainsbury's20approach in this case, because Sainsbury's made a choice. First, they made a choice to21bring proceedings against MasterCard in 2012 and against Visa Europe in 2013, a year later.22They have pursued those proceedings in separate courts. The Visa proceedings were23commenced in the Chancery Division and then transferred to the Commercial Court. The24MasterCard proceedings commenced in the Chancery Division and transferred to this court.25There was never any attempt by Sainsbury's to argue that those two separate sets of26proceedings should be case managed together. Sainsbury's, therefore, chose to engage in27litigation in a situation where it knew that it would be dealing with issues that were not28identic	8	subsequent case law.
11If you go to para. 28 you can see the citation of GIO on the issue of documents, and at para.1229 he says he does not think they are good law. We may have to have an argument about13this at some future date and I just flag it for that reason, but it is not relevant to what we are14dealing with today.15THE CHAIRMAN: I hope it is not going to be in this Tribunal.16MISS ROSE: I hope not, no. Sir, we say the law is extremely clear and that these are core17documents which would originally have been dealt with orally because of procedural18developments they are now submitted to courts in writing, but that cannot be a reason for19impeding public access to them. That, we say, is the heart of the fallacy of Sainsbury's20approach in this case, because Sainsbury's made a choice. First, they made a choice to21bring proceedings against MasterCard in 2012 and against Visa Europe in 2013, a year later.22They have pursued those proceedings in separate courts. The Visa proceedings were23commenced in the Chancery Division and then transferred to the Commercial Court. The24MasterCard proceedings commenced in the Chancery Division and transferred to this court.25There was never any attempt by Sainsbury's to argue that those two separate sets of26proceedings should be case managed together. Sainsbury's, therefore, chose to engage in27litigation in a situation where it knew that it would be dealing with issues that were not28identical but similar to the issues that arise in the Visa proceedings on a faster timescale and29in publi	9	THE CHAIRMAN: Is that in relation to documents again?
1229 he says he does not think they are good law. We may have to have an argument about13this at some future date and I just flag it for that reason, but it is not relevant to what we are14dealing with today.15THE CHAIRMAN: I hope it is not going to be in this Tribunal.16MISS ROSE: I hope not, no. Sir, we say the law is extremely clear and that these are core17documents which would originally have been dealt with orally because of procedural18developments they are now submitted to courts in writing, but that cannot be a reason for19impeding public access to them. That, we say, is the heart of the fallacy of Sainsbury's20approach in this case, because Sainsbury's made a choice. First, they made a choice to21bring proceedings against MasterCard in 2012 and against Visa Europe in 2013, a year later.22They have pursued those proceedings in separate courts. The Visa proceedings were23commenced in the Chancery Division and then transferred to the Commercial Court. The24MasterCard proceedings commenced in the Chancery Division and transferred to this court.25There was never any attempt by Sainsbury's to argue that those two separate sets of26proceedings should be case managed together. Sainsbury's, therefore, chose to engage in27litigation in a situation where it knew that it would be dealing with issues that were not28identical but similar to the issues that arise in the Visa proceedings on a faster timescale and29in public.30It, therefore, does not lie in Sainsbury's mouth now to seek to constrain the normal </td <td>10</td> <td>MISS ROSE: Yes, that is in relation to documents, and there is a full discussion of the case law.</td>	10	MISS ROSE: Yes, that is in relation to documents, and there is a full discussion of the case law.
13this at some future date and I just flag it for that reason, but it is not relevant to what we are14dealing with today.15THE CHAIRMAN: I hope it is not going to be in this Tribunal.16MISS ROSE: I hope not, no. Sir, we say the law is extremely clear and that these are core17documents which would originally have been dealt with orally because of procedural18developments they are now submitted to courts in writing, but that cannot be a reason for19impeding public access to them. That, we say, is the heart of the fallacy of Sainsbury's20approach in this case, because Sainsbury's made a choice. First, they made a choice to21bring proceedings against MasterCard in 2012 and against Visa Europe in 2013, a year later.22They have pursued those proceedings in separate courts. The Visa proceedings were23commenced in the Chancery Division and then transferred to the Commercial Court. The24MasterCard proceedings commenced in the Chancery Division and transferred to this court.25There was never any attempt by Sainsbury's to argue that those two separate sets of26proceedings should be case managed together. Sainsbury's, therefore, chose to engage in27litigation in a situation where it knew that it would be dealing with issues that were not28identical but similar to the issues that arise in the Visa proceedings on a faster timescale and29in public.30It, therefore, does not lie in Sainsbury's mouth now to seek to constrain the normal31consequences of that conclusion which are that the hearing was in public, we were able to <td>11</td> <td>If you go to para. 28 you can see the citation of GIO on the issue of documents, and at para.</td>	11	If you go to para. 28 you can see the citation of GIO on the issue of documents, and at para.
14dealing with today.15THE CHAIRMAN: I hope it is not going to be in this Tribunal.16MISS ROSE: I hope not, no. Sir, we say the law is extremely clear and that these are core17documents which would originally have been dealt with orally because of procedural18developments they are now submitted to courts in writing, but that cannot be a reason for19impeding public access to them. That, we say, is the heart of the fallacy of Sainsbury's20approach in this case, because Sainsbury's made a choice. First, they made a choice to21bring proceedings against MasterCard in 2012 and against Visa Europe in 2013, a year later.22They have pursued those proceedings in separate courts. The Visa proceedings were23commenced in the Chancery Division and then transferred to the Commercial Court. The24MasterCard proceedings commenced in the Chancery Division and transferred to this court.25There was never any attempt by Sainsbury's to argue that those two separate sets of26proceedings should be case managed together. Sainsbury's, therefore, chose to engage in27litigation in a situation where it knew that it would be dealing with issues that were not28identical but similar to the issues that arise in the Visa proceedings on a faster timescale and29in public.30It, therefore, does not lie in Sainsbury's mouth now to seek to constrain the normal31consequences of that conclusion which are that the hearing was in public, we were able to32attend and it is no secret we did have a representative in court throughout who took notes.	12	29 he says he does not think they are good law. We may have to have an argument about
 THE CHAIRMAN: I hope it is not going to be in this Tribunal. MISS ROSE: I hope not, no. Sir, we say the law is extremely clear and that these are core documents which would originally have been dealt with orally because of procedural developments they are now submitted to courts in writing, but that cannot be a reason for impeding public access to them. That, we say, is the heart of the fallacy of Sainsbury's approach in this case, because Sainsbury's made a choice. First, they made a choice to bring proceedings against MasterCard in 2012 and against Visa Europe in 2013, a year later. They have pursued those proceedings in separate courts. The Visa proceedings were commenced in the Chancery Division and then transferred to the Commercial Court. The MasterCard proceedings commenced in the Chancery Division and transferred to this court. There was never any attempt by Sainsbury's to argue that those two separate sets of proceedings should be case managed together. Sainsbury's, therefore, chose to engage in litigation in a situation where it knew that it would be dealing with issues that were not identical but similar to the issues that arise in the Visa proceedings on a faster timescale and in public. It, therefore, does not lie in Sainsbury's mouth now to seek to constrain the normal consequences of that conclusion which are that the hearing was in public, we were able to attend and it is no secret we did have a representative in court throughout who took notes. We have access to the transcripts of those proceedings, so we already have access to the 	13	this at some future date and I just flag it for that reason, but it is not relevant to what we are
 MISS ROSE: I hope not, no. Sir, we say the law is extremely clear and that these are core documents which would originally have been dealt with orally because of procedural developments they are now submitted to courts in writing, but that cannot be a reason for impeding public access to them. That, we say, is the heart of the fallacy of Sainsbury's approach in this case, because Sainsbury's made a choice. First, they made a choice to bring proceedings against MasterCard in 2012 and against Visa Europe in 2013, a year later. They have pursued those proceedings in separate courts. The Visa proceedings were commenced in the Chancery Division and then transferred to the Commercial Court. The MasterCard proceedings commenced in the Chancery Division and transferred to this court. There was never any attempt by Sainsbury's to argue that those two separate sets of proceedings should be case managed together. Sainsbury's, therefore, chose to engage in litigation in a situation where it knew that it would be dealing with issues that were not identical but similar to the issues that arise in the Visa proceedings on a faster timescale and in public. It, therefore, does not lie in Sainsbury's mouth now to seek to constrain the normal consequences of that conclusion which are that the hearing was in public, we were able to attend and it is no secret we did have a representative in court throughout who took notes. We have access to the transcripts of those proceedings, so we already have access to the 	14	dealing with today.
17documents which would originally have been dealt with orally because of procedural18developments they are now submitted to courts in writing, but that cannot be a reason for19impeding public access to them. That, we say, is the heart of the fallacy of Sainsbury's20approach in this case, because Sainsbury's made a choice. First, they made a choice to21bring proceedings against MasterCard in 2012 and against Visa Europe in 2013, a year later.22They have pursued those proceedings in separate courts. The Visa proceedings were23commenced in the Chancery Division and then transferred to the Commercial Court. The24MasterCard proceedings commenced in the Chancery Division and transferred to this court.25There was never any attempt by Sainsbury's to argue that those two separate sets of26proceedings should be case managed together. Sainsbury's, therefore, chose to engage in27litigation in a situation where it knew that it would be dealing with issues that were not28identical but similar to the issues that arise in the Visa proceedings on a faster timescale and29in public.30It, therefore, does not lie in Sainsbury's mouth now to seek to constrain the normal31consequences of that conclusion which are that the hearing was in public, we were able to32attend and it is no secret we did have a representative in court throughout who took notes.33We have access to the transcripts of those proceedings, so we already have access to the	15	THE CHAIRMAN: I hope it is not going to be in this Tribunal.
18developments they are now submitted to courts in writing, but that cannot be a reason for19impeding public access to them. That, we say, is the heart of the fallacy of Sainsbury's20approach in this case, because Sainsbury's made a choice. First, they made a choice to21bring proceedings against MasterCard in 2012 and against Visa Europe in 2013, a year later.22They have pursued those proceedings in separate courts. The Visa proceedings were23commenced in the Chancery Division and then transferred to the Commercial Court. The24MasterCard proceedings commenced in the Chancery Division and transferred to this court.25There was never any attempt by Sainsbury's to argue that those two separate sets of26proceedings should be case managed together. Sainsbury's, therefore, chose to engage in27litigation in a situation where it knew that it would be dealing with issues that were not28identical but similar to the issues that arise in the Visa proceedings on a faster timescale and29in public.30It, therefore, does not lie in Sainsbury's mouth now to seek to constrain the normal31consequences of that conclusion which are that the hearing was in public, we were able to32attend and it is no secret we did have a representative in court throughout who took notes.33We have access to the transcripts of those proceedings, so we already have access to the	16	MISS ROSE: I hope not, no. Sir, we say the law is extremely clear and that these are core impeding public access to them. That, we say, is the heart of the fallacy of Sainsbury's approach in this case, because Sainsbury's made a choice. First, they made a choice to bring proceedings against MasterCard in 2012 and against Visa Europe in 2013, a year later. They have pursued those proceedings in separate courts. The Visa proceedings were commenced in the Chancery Division and then transferred to the Commercial Court. The MasterCard proceedings commenced in the Chancery Division and transferred to this court. There was never any attempt by Sainsbury's to argue that those two separate sets of proceedings should be case managed together. Sainsbury's, therefore, chose to engage in litigation in a situation where it knew that it would be dealing with issues that were not identical but similar to the issues that arise in the Visa proceedings on a faster timescale and in public. It, therefore, does not lie in Sainsbury's mouth now to seek to constrain the normal consequences of that conclusion which are that the hearing was in public, we were able to attend and it is no secret we did have a representative in court throughout who took notes. We have access to the transcripts of those proceedings, so we already have access to the 	17	documents which would originally have been dealt with orally because of procedural
20approach in this case, because Sainsbury's made a choice. First, they made a choice to21bring proceedings against MasterCard in 2012 and against Visa Europe in 2013, a year later.22They have pursued those proceedings in separate courts. The Visa proceedings were23commenced in the Chancery Division and then transferred to the Commercial Court. The24MasterCard proceedings commenced in the Chancery Division and transferred to this court.25There was never any attempt by Sainsbury's to argue that those two separate sets of26proceedings should be case managed together. Sainsbury's, therefore, chose to engage in27litigation in a situation where it knew that it would be dealing with issues that were not28identical but similar to the issues that arise in the Visa proceedings on a faster timescale and29in public.30It, therefore, does not lie in Sainsbury's mouth now to seek to constrain the normal31consequences of that conclusion which are that the hearing was in public, we were able to32attend and it is no secret we did have a representative in court throughout who took notes.33We have access to the transcripts of those proceedings, so we already have access to the	18	developments they are now submitted to courts in writing, but that cannot be a reason for bring proceedings against MasterCard in 2012 and against Visa Europe in 2013, a year later. They have pursued those proceedings in separate courts. The Visa proceedings were commenced in the Chancery Division and then transferred to the Commercial Court. The MasterCard proceedings commenced in the Chancery Division and transferred to this court. There was never any attempt by Sainsbury's to argue that those two separate sets of proceedings should be case managed together. Sainsbury's, therefore, chose to engage in litigation in a situation where it knew that it would be dealing with issues that were not identical but similar to the issues that arise in the Visa proceedings on a faster timescale and in public. It, therefore, does not lie in Sainsbury's mouth now to seek to constrain the normal consequences of that conclusion which are that the hearing was in public, we were able to attend and it is no secret we did have a representative in court throughout who took notes. We have access to the transcripts of those proceedings, so we already have access to the 	19	impeding public access to them. That, we say, is the heart of the fallacy of Sainsbury's
 They have pursued those proceedings in separate courts. The Visa proceedings were commenced in the Chancery Division and then transferred to the Commercial Court. The MasterCard proceedings commenced in the Chancery Division and transferred to this court. There was never any attempt by Sainsbury's to argue that those two separate sets of proceedings should be case managed together. Sainsbury's, therefore, chose to engage in litigation in a situation where it knew that it would be dealing with issues that were not identical but similar to the issues that arise in the Visa proceedings on a faster timescale and in public. It, therefore, does not lie in Sainsbury's mouth now to seek to constrain the normal consequences of that conclusion which are that the hearing was in public, we were able to attend and it is no secret we did have a representative in court throughout who took notes. We have access to the transcripts of those proceedings, so we already have access to the 	20	approach in this case, because Sainsbury's made a choice. First, they made a choice to commenced in the Chancery Division and then transferred to the Commercial Court. The MasterCard proceedings commenced in the Chancery Division and transferred to this court. There was never any attempt by Sainsbury's to argue that those two separate sets of proceedings should be case managed together. Sainsbury's, therefore, chose to engage in litigation in a situation where it knew that it would be dealing with issues that were not identical but similar to the issues that arise in the Visa proceedings on a faster timescale and in public. It, therefore, does not lie in Sainsbury's mouth now to seek to constrain the normal consequences of that conclusion which are that the hearing was in public, we were able to attend and it is no secret we did have a representative in court throughout who took notes. We have access to the transcripts of those proceedings, so we already have access to the 	21	bring proceedings against MasterCard in 2012 and against Visa Europe in 2013, a year later.
 MasterCard proceedings commenced in the Chancery Division and transferred to this court. There was never any attempt by Sainsbury's to argue that those two separate sets of proceedings should be case managed together. Sainsbury's, therefore, chose to engage in litigation in a situation where it knew that it would be dealing with issues that were not identical but similar to the issues that arise in the Visa proceedings on a faster timescale and in public. It, therefore, does not lie in Sainsbury's mouth now to seek to constrain the normal consequences of that conclusion which are that the hearing was in public, we were able to attend and it is no secret we did have a representative in court throughout who took notes. We have access to the transcripts of those proceedings, so we already have access to the 	22	They have pursued those proceedings in separate courts. The Visa proceedings were
 There was never any attempt by Sainsbury's to argue that those two separate sets of proceedings should be case managed together. Sainsbury's, therefore, chose to engage in litigation in a situation where it knew that it would be dealing with issues that were not identical but similar to the issues that arise in the Visa proceedings on a faster timescale and in public. It, therefore, does not lie in Sainsbury's mouth now to seek to constrain the normal consequences of that conclusion which are that the hearing was in public, we were able to attend and it is no secret we did have a representative in court throughout who took notes. We have access to the transcripts of those proceedings, so we already have access to the 	23	commenced in the Chancery Division and then transferred to the Commercial Court. The proceedings should be case managed together. Sainsbury's, therefore, chose to engage in litigation in a situation where it knew that it would be dealing with issues that were not identical but similar to the issues that arise in the Visa proceedings on a faster timescale and in public. It, therefore, does not lie in Sainsbury's mouth now to seek to constrain the normal consequences of that conclusion which are that the hearing was in public, we were able to attend and it is no secret we did have a representative in court throughout who took notes. We have access to the transcripts of those proceedings, so we already have access to the 	24	MasterCard proceedings commenced in the Chancery Division and transferred to this court.
 litigation in a situation where it knew that it would be dealing with issues that were not identical but similar to the issues that arise in the Visa proceedings on a faster timescale and in public. It, therefore, does not lie in Sainsbury's mouth now to seek to constrain the normal consequences of that conclusion which are that the hearing was in public, we were able to attend and it is no secret we did have a representative in court throughout who took notes. We have access to the transcripts of those proceedings, so we already have access to the 	25	There was never any attempt by Sainsbury's to argue that those two separate sets of identical but similar to the issues that arise in the Visa proceedings on a faster timescale and in public. It, therefore, does not lie in Sainsbury's mouth now to seek to constrain the normal consequences of that conclusion which are that the hearing was in public, we were able to attend and it is no secret we did have a representative in court throughout who took notes. We have access to the transcripts of those proceedings, so we already have access to the 	26	proceedings should be case managed together. Sainsbury's, therefore, chose to engage in in public. It, therefore, does not lie in Sainsbury's mouth now to seek to constrain the normal consequences of that conclusion which are that the hearing was in public, we were able to attend and it is no secret we did have a representative in court throughout who took notes. We have access to the transcripts of those proceedings, so we already have access to the 	27	litigation in a situation where it knew that it would be dealing with issues that were not
 30 It, therefore, does not lie in Sainsbury's mouth now to seek to constrain the normal 31 consequences of that conclusion which are that the hearing was in public, we were able to 32 attend and it is no secret we did have a representative in court throughout who took notes. 33 We have access to the transcripts of those proceedings, so we already have access to the 	28	identical but similar to the issues that arise in the Visa proceedings on a faster timescale and
 31 consequences of that conclusion which are that the hearing was in public, we were able to 32 attend and it is no secret we did have a representative in court throughout who took notes. 33 We have access to the transcripts of those proceedings, so we already have access to the 	29	in public.
 32 attend and it is no secret we did have a representative in court throughout who took notes. 33 We have access to the transcripts of those proceedings, so we already have access to the 	30	It, therefore, does not lie in Sainsbury's mouth now to seek to constrain the normal
33 We have access to the transcripts of those proceedings, so we already have access to the	31	consequences of that conclusion which are that the hearing was in public, we were able to
	32	attend and it is no secret we did have a representative in court throughout who took notes.
34 cross examination of the experts on both liability and, to a limited extent, quantum, though	33
	34	cross examination of the experts on both liability and, to a limited extent, quantum, though

1	much of the quantum cross-examination was done confidentially, and we have heard the
2	oral closing submissions of counsel.
3	THE CHAIRMAN: As a matter of interest, you have all the transcripts?
4	MISS ROSE: Yes, we have all the non-confidential transcripts.
5	THE CHAIRMAN: So those, presumably, you get from the parties, MasterCard or somebody?
6	MISS ROSE: Can I just seek instructions?
7	THE CHAIRMAN: Yes.
8	MISS ROSE: (After a pause) Yes, they were provided to us by MasterCard. We have the
9	transcripts and we were in court and were able to hear what was going on. The difficulty is
10	that, of course, people were being cross-examined on witness statements we have not seen,
11	and the closing submissions, in particular, were obviously highly truncated by reference to
12	what I would guess were very substantial documents, having been scarred myself by the
13	preparation of some of these documents, I would imagine they were not short. Therefore,
14	our understanding of the issues, as they were ventilated before your Tribunal is very partial.
15	In that situation we submit there is a real prejudice to us if we are not provided with these
16	materials.
17	Sainsbury's position, with respect, is wholly inconsistent because Sainsbury's could have
18	taken the position where it thought it was prejudicial to it in the Visa proceedings for us to
19	have notice of the line taken by its expert in advance of exchange of expert evidence in the
20	Visa proceedings. If it was going to do that, it should have come to your Tribunal and
21	argued that all of the expert evidence should be dealt with in a private hearing for that
22	reason, to avoid prejudice to it in the Visa proceedings.
23	THE CHAIRMAN: Just remind me, sorry, are you a party - I get mixed up between you and
24	Mr. Jowell's clients.
25	MISS ROSE: We are not being sued by Sainsbury's. Mr. Jowell has the privilege of being sued
26	by Sainsbury's.
27	THE CHAIRMAN: You are being sued by other people
28	MISS ROSE: Sadly, though not personally!
29	THE CHAIRMAN: in cases which are effectively joined.
30	MISS ROSE: Yes, I am being sued by Arcadia, Marks & Spencer and Tesco, and various other
31	people. Mr. Jowell is also being sued by Sainsbury's - again not personally!
32	Sainsbury's could have argued that all of its expert evidence should have been dealt with in
33	camera to avoid prejudicing its position in the Visa proceedings, but it did not do that.
34	What it cannot do, having not done that

1	THE CHAIRMAN: It would have got a dusty answer, if it had done, I think.
2	MISS ROSE: Sir, that is exactly the point, is it not, it would have got a dusty answer
3	THE CHAIRMAN: It might have done.
4	MISS ROSE: for obvious reasons.
5	THE CHAIRMAN: I am not judging it, because the problem will probably arise next week.
6	MISS ROSE: It is not a legitimate reason for having a hearing in private. If it is not a legitimate
7	reason for having a hearing in private, it is not a legitimate reason for withholding or
8	delaying the provision of documents which are to be treated as if they were part of the oral
9	record because they are substitutes for materials that would originally have been dealt with
10	orally in open court.
11	THE CHAIRMAN: Even if it is a factor, you argue it would not be a sufficient factor?
12	MISS ROSE: No, not in those circumstances. As the case law establishes, the reasons we want
13	the material, which are indeed to inform our own conduct in these proceedings, are entirely
14	legitimate, as the courts have repeatedly said in the cases that I have just shown to you.
15	Can I show you the position of Sainsbury's and explain where we take issue with it.
16	THE CHAIRMAN: This is your skeleton?
17	MISS ROSE: Yes. Could you take up the skeleton argument of Sainsbury's. Their submissions
18	start at p.7. At para.18 they, seek to make something of the fact that the documents were
19	originally disclosed into confidentiality rings. I have to confess, I do not understand what
20	point they are seeking to make, and I will wait and see how it is developed. It seems to me
21	to have no relevance to this whatever, because we are only seeking non-confidential
22	versions referred to in open court. Sir, as you will be aware, para.9.66 itself makes it clear
23	that there is a duty on parties to prepare non-confidential versions of their witness
24	statements and skeleton arguments so they can be provided to non-parties. That is what
25	9.66 says. That, we say, takes them nowhere.
26	Then at 19, they say that the open justice principle has little or no bearing, and they rely on
27	Dian, and you have already got my submissions on that. We say that is a misunderstanding
28	of Dian.
29	Then at 21 they say we are motivated by the desire to use the documents sought in other
30	litigation, and again you have my submission on that. They can see that that does not make
31	it illegitimate.
32	They say at the bottom of 22 that our interests must be weighed against other legitimate
33	interests, including fairness to Sainsbury's. Of course, the mischaracterisation in that
34	paragraph is treating it as if it were simply the weighing of two private commercial interests, whereas in fact it is weighing the public interest in open justice against what they claim to be unfairness.

We then come to what they say is the unfairness. Sir, there is no evidence provided to assist you as to precisely how they say they will be prejudiced. The only details we have are what they say at 23 and 24. First of all, they say that the claims are similar; and then say that it will be readily apparent that if we now are given the documents we seek, first of all, we would otherwise have had to file our witness statements and expert reports without knowing in advance what Sainsbury's witness statements and expert reports will comprise. So we will get a preview of their evidence. That, we say, is the natural consequence of the course which Sainsbury's chose to take in the MasterCard and Visa proceedings. In any event, that bird has already flown. We already have a preview of the evidence because we have the transcripts, and they never sought to argue otherwise. We say that is a bad objection in principle, and in any event it carries no weight in these proceedings because it is too late to shut the stable door, the horse has bolted.

Then (b) in relation to quantum, they say, that we will have this information more than a year earlier than we have done otherwise. What they are seeking to do is to hold back until the summer of 2017 submissions and expert reports dealing with quantum. As a matter of fact, even then they are not saying they will provide them to us, they are only suggesting that they would provide them to Visa Europe, subject to an order from the Commercial Court.

THE CHAIRMAN: Can you just help me on one thing on that. There is some order which I have not completely mastered yet in the Commercial Court which provides for a certain amount of cross-pollination of documents disclosed in one or other of these proceedings?

MISS ROSE: That is right.

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19 20

21

22

23

24

25

28

29

THE CHAIRMAN: Does that not apply to the quantum?

- MISS ROSE: Not yet. The issue of cross-disclosure of documents in the quantum proceedings is live between the parties. What has happened is that an order was made by
 - Mr. Justice Phillips requiring mutual disclosure as between Sainsbury's and my clients of all documents on liability.
- In relation to phase 2, there is an order for a joint trial involving Sainsbury's and a number of other claimants, and also involving MasterCard. So there is going to be a joint trial on quantum of the Arcadia claims against both Visa and MasterCard and of the Sainsbury's claims against Visa Europe.
- 34 THE CHAIRMAN: You are involved in those?

1	MISS ROSE: We are involved in that because we are being sued by Arcadia. That is the shape of
2	the phase 2 trial. The question of mutual disclosure in the phase 2 trial has not yet been
3	resolved. There was some debate about it at the last CMC and the parties are seeking to
4	agree it, but have not done so. That is the current position on quantum.
5	What they are seeking to do is to hold back their expert evidence from us until 3 rd June,
6	which is the date of exchange of expert reports, which will prejudice our expert because it
7	means they will not have the benefit of the material before the expert reports are produced,
8	and to hold back the quantum evidence either indefinitely or at the very least until the
9	summer of 2017.
10	They say at 25, "Patently" - it is always a giveaway, Sir, when you see "patently" or
11	"clearly" or "self-evidently", because it means that there is not actually any reason for the
12	conclusion being given:
13	"Patently, the effect of the foregoing would be to place Sainsbury's at a significant
14	disadvantage"
15	That is baffling. It does not place Sainsbury's at any significant disadvantage.
16	THE CHAIRMAN: I did, I am afraid, put a question mark against that.
17	MISS ROSE: Sir, we have had fairly extensive correspondence with Sainsbury's on this issue.
18	THE CHAIRMAN: If anything, it could give your side something better than they would
19	otherwise have had.
20	MISS ROSE: Yes, but that is the result of Sainsbury's choice.
21	THE CHAIRMAN: That may be the binary point they are making, I do not know.
22	MISS ROSE: But that is Sainsbury's choice, because they chose to advance this case and have
23	both liability and quantum dealt with on a different timescale.
24	THE CHAIRMAN: If anything, I would have thought it would be a huge disadvantage. It means
25	that your side is going to have a vast amount more stuff to look at and read.
26	MISS ROSE: Exactly, very late in the day.
27	THE CHAIRMAN: Most of it would probably not be of any disadvantage.
28	MISS ROSE: Sir, that may be one reason why at the moment we are not seeking underlying
29	exhibits. That is that.
30	Then if you look at the draft order that they are seeking, it goes even further than that. You
31	can see the dates that they are suggesting. If you look at para.2, you can see they are
32	suggesting a delay in the expert reports until the date for exchange of expert evidence. That
33	is only in relation to liability.

1	Then they are suggesting witness statements in relation to quantum far into the future. As
2	you can also see, they are saying that they should only be served on my clients, who are
3	applicants 1 and 2, subject to a determination by the court in the Sainsbury's v Visa
4	proceedings.
5	THE CHAIRMAN: Sorry, where do you get that from?
6	MISS ROSE: This is para.3, it is very hard to understand, I am afraid.
7	THE CHAIRMAN: I have to say, I did find this order a bit difficult to understand.
8	MISS ROSE: What it comes down to is they are proposing that their materials as they relate to
9	quantum, first of all, should not be served until a date next year; and secondly, should only
10	be served on Visa Europe, and should not be provided to us unless we get an order from the
11	Commercial Court saying that there should be mutual disclosure between VI and
12	Sainsbury's of quantum documents. That is what they are saying.
13	Sir, we say that is wholly inappropriate, because the basis on which we are seeking these
14	documents has nothing whatever to do with the circumstances in which we are entitled to
15	documents in the Visa proceedings. It is a category error. They are confusing our right as
16	members of the public and observers of the judicial proceedings with our status as parties in
17	related proceedings being heard jointly. That is the second flaw.
18	The next extraordinary proposition at 6 is that they are proposing that these documents
19	should be served on confidentiality terms, and that they cannot be used for any purposes
20	other than this litigation.
21	Sir, with great respect, it is impossible to see the basis for any such provision. How could
22	there be properly any confidentiality restrictions on documents which, ex hypothesi, are
23	non-confidential documents referred to in open court?
24	THE CHAIRMAN: I think we had better hear from Miss Love on that point.
25	MISS ROSE: Sir, for those reasons we say that their objections are wholly misconceived.
26	THE CHAIRMAN: Just before you close, your interpretation of para.,6:
27	" this means that they are disclosed under the same terms that exist at any given
28	time in relation to closing submissions, witness statements and expert reports
29	defined as Phase 2and cannot be used for any other purpose."
30	Just give your interpretation of that again?
31	MISS ROSE: It is not totally clear to me what terms they mean exactly, and no doubt Miss Love
32	will be clear, but she is clearly saying that there should be a restriction on their use, and we
33	say that is wrong in principle.

1 There is a further objection, Sir, which is that, in fact, Sainsbury's have reached agreement 2 with the Arcadia claimants on more generous terms than they are now seeking to provide 3 documents to us. Of course, Arcadia are suing us. Sir, if you take up the hearing bundle, if 4 you go to the correspondence section at tab 4, you will see a letter from my solicitors, 5 Milbank, at p.50, to Stewarts Law, who act for the Arcadia claimants. They act for the 6 Arcadia claimants in both the MasterCard proceedings and the Visa proceedings. Sir, as 7 you may know, the Arcadia v MasterCard proceedings are due to commence in the Commercial Court in June, and the Arcadia v Visa proceedings, to which we are a party, 8 9 also in the Commercial Court, in October. The same solicitors, the same counsel, and it is 10 our understanding it is the same expert in both sets of proceedings acting for Arcadia. I 11 should say that our understanding about the expert comes from the schedules we have seen 12 to the confidentiality orders, which give names of the same teams and the same economic 13 consultants in both sets of proceedings. 14 Sir, we in this letter raised with the Arcadia claimants the question as to whether Sainsbury's 15 had agreed to provide materials to them. We were concerned that they were refusing to tell 16 us. At the top of p.51, we pointed out that the same solicitors and counsel are representing 17 the Arcadia claimants in both MasterCard and Visa: 18 "The suggestion that any meaningful distinction could be made can be made 19 between the use by your legal team of the documents from Sainsbury's v 20 MasterCard hearing in either set of proceedings is, in the circumstances, fanciful." 21 We said you cannot suggest that this is being disclosed to the same solicitors and counsel, 22 and, we would say, a fortiori, the same expert who is acting in both the MasterCard and 23 Visa proceedings, that they are somehow going to put them out of their mind when 24 preparing their expert reports for the purpose of our proceedings. 25 They have narrowed it into a consent order which they sent us yesterday - this came 26 vesterday from Stewarts Law, it is at 52F - if I can just show you the order first. 27 THE CHAIRMAN: This is the one that has settled? 28 MISS ROSE: This is one that has settled, so this is the consent order that the Arcadia claimants 29 have entered into with Sainsbury's. They were not seeking the Sainsbury's factual witness 30 statements, but only the MasterCard factual witness statements. You will see at 52I that those are to be provided to them by 4 o'clock on 20th May. 31 32 Then at para.2: "The claimant shall by 4 o'clock on 20th May, serve on the applicants a copy of the 33 34 following documents:

1	(a) its written submissions; and
2	(b) its expert reports, save for elements relating to quantum."
3	So Sainsbury's have agreed to provide all of their closing submissions, both on liability and
4	quantum, and their expert reports on liability by 20 th May, which is three weeks before the
5	exchange of expert reports in the proceedings to which we are a defendant. So the Arcadia
6	claimants will be provided with those materials, but we will not.
7	We say there is clear and demonstrable prejudice to my clients if Sainsbury's are permitted
8	to get away with that. Essentially, they are providing to the claimants in the closely related
9	proceedings a procedural advantage over my clients.
10	Then at 3 we see the same for the defendants, the whole of the defendants' written
11	submissions and their expert reports on liability by 20 th May.
12	THE CHAIRMAN: I am sorry, Miss Rose, I missed that last point.
13	MISS ROSE: Paragraph 2 is the claimant's written submissions and expert reports on liability by
14	20 th May, and para.3 is the same in relation to the defendants' closing submissions and
15	expert reports on liability.
16	THE CHAIRMAN: I see, yes.
17	MISS ROSE: Then at 4, provision of expert reports on quantum, when there is exchange of
18	expert reports on quantum in the Commercial Court.
19	THE CHAIRMAN: That is not going to be until next year?
20	MISS ROSE: No, that is not until next year. Sir, you will note that that does not apply to the
21	closing submissions.
22	Then redaction of confidential material - that is not controversial at all.
23	Then para.7, all documents served, and look at this:
24	"Any notes taken by the applicant's representatives of the Tribunal hearing may be
25	used for the exclusive purpose of the Commercial Court proceedings."
26	The Commercial Court proceedings are defined at the beginning of this order as case
27	number 2012/669 to 703, and 1305 to 1311. Those are only the MasterCard proceedings,
28	not the Visa proceedings. So the fig leaf behind which they are hiding to say we are not
29	prejudiced is to say, "Oh, well, they can only use this expert report and these submissions in
30	the MasterCard proceedings, not the Visa proceedings". These are going to be read by the
31	same counsel, the same solicitors and the same experts. That is what we described as
32	'fanciful'.
33	Also, Sir, quite extraordinary, Arcadia have apparently agreed that notes taken by them at a
34	public hearing are only to be used for the purposes of a particular legal proceedings. That is

1	remarkable. It is up to them if they want to agree, but it is an indication of how far the
2	parties are removed from any normal concept of open justice. Also, you will see at 8, that
3	they are being disclosed into a confidentiality ring, even though they are non-confidential
4	documents.
5	This is obviously not an order that this Tribunal would ever countenance or make.
6	MISS LOVE: Sir, I rise reluctantly in case it assists in relation to that particular provision on
7	notes in the proceedings. Sir, as you will recall, Stewarts Law representatives did attend
8	some of the MasterCard confidential hearings.
9	THE CHAIRMAN: I see, so that relates just to the notes in the confidential hearings? It does not
10	say so. It includes those notes.
11	MISS LOVE: On its face, that would cover the notes that were made in the MasterCard private
12	hearings.
13	MISS ROSE: It certainly is not limited to them, but I hear what Miss Love says.
14	So, Sir, that is the position on Arcadia, and we say that that is really the final nail in the
15	coffin of their resistance to this application, because it is clear that we are the ones who are
16	prejudiced by the agreement that they have now reached with Arcadia. In order for that
17	prejudice to be lifted it is imperative that this court orders forthwith the disclosure to us of
18	the factual statements, the expert reports and the closing submissions that we seek.
19	Unless I can be of any assistance, those are my submissions.
20	THE CHAIRMAN: Thank you. Mr. Jowell?
21	MR. JOWELL: My Lord, I gratefully adopt Miss Rose's submissions, and I do not intend to
22	detain your Lordship except very briefly on one point, which is specific to my client, and
23	that is this: we are, as Miss Rose observed, defendants to Sainsbury's claim in the
24	Commercial Court. It is important to appreciate that in the Commercial Court the dates for
25	standard disclosure have passed, both in relation to the phase 1 proceedings and
26	THE CHAIRMAN: You made this point in your skeleton.
27	MR. JOWELL: Indeed, and indeed phase 2. We say that it must surely be the case that a large
28	number, perhaps even the majority, of the documents exchanged between the parties in the
29	MasterCard proceedings - by that I include not just the documents that we seek today on
30	this application, but also the exhibits and indeed the other underlying documents that will
31	have been exchanged between the parties - will surely fall within standard disclosure that
32	Sainsbury's is obliged to provide.

1	Of course, there may be exceptions to that. One is that there may be documents that are
2	relevant to the MasterCard proceedings, but not relevant to the Visa proceedings. I think
3	that would be a minority, but there may be some.
4	The other special situation may be where there are MasterCard confidential documents - in
5	other words, documents that are confidential to MasterCard, and that have been provided to
6	Sainsbury's which would be governed by 31.22, or Rule 102. In respect of those
7	documents, they should be disclosing their existence to us, but they may be entitled to resist
8	inspection unless MasterCard consents or the court orders.
9	Other than those two classes, these are documents that should have been provided to us
10	already in
11	THE CHAIRMAN: For all we know, they have been.
12	MR. JOWELL: Sir, there is no sign of them. Certainly we have not received the witness
13	statements, the documents that we are seeking today.
14	THE CHAIRMAN: I see, you mean the documents you are seeking today. I thought you were
15	now moving on to an exhibits point.
16	MR. JOWELL: Sir, we assume, if we have not seen the witness statement, we probably have not
17	seen the exhibits either. I do not mention that to you, Sir, because I do not invite you to
18	make any order in respect of that. Indeed, we fully agree that that is not a matter for you,
19	Sir, it is a matter for the Commercial Court in due course. I mention it for two reasons:
20	one, because it does, I think, scotch the suggestion in Sainsbury's skeleton argument that we
21	are somehow getting an unfair advantage by jumping the queue in the Visa proceedings and
22	getting these documents earlier than we would otherwise be entitled to them in the High
23	Court, because we are certainly not. We are getting these documents late, in fact.
24	THE CHAIRMAN: Would you include in that the quantum aspect?
25	MR. JOWELL: Yes.
26	THE CHAIRMAN: Have there not been specific orders about quantum?
27	MR. JOWELL: There have. Quantum is phase 2, and standard disclosure has passed on phase 2,
28	so we should have received that. Sainsbury's witness statements in relation to quantum
29	should have been disclosed to us.
30	THE CHAIRMAN: I see, yes.
31	MR. JOWELL: Even the confidential ones should have been disclosed, albeit perhaps within the
32	confidentiality ring.

1	The second reason I make that point is to put on record that we do require this wider class
2	of documents to be reviewed and to be disclosed in the Commercial Court, and we will in
3	due course apply to the High Court for the specific disclosure if we are forced to do so.
4	THE CHAIRMAN: In relation to?
5	MR. JOWELL: In relation to all documents exchanged in the MasterCard proceedings that are
6	relevant to these proceedings and that have not been provided as part of standard disclosure.
7	We wish to put on record that we regard those documents as part of standard disclosure, and
8	that Sainsbury's are in breach of their standard disclosure obligations by not having
9	provided them to date, but we will, if necessary, make an application for specific disclosure
10	if we are forced to.
11	THE CHAIRMAN: Thank you very much. Miss Love? You have a particular raid against you.
12	MISS LOVE: Sir, I believe that you and Miss Houghton next to me and Miss Boyle in front of
13	you possibly have the rare privilege and distinction among those here today of having
14	actually sat through all of the evidence and submissions.
15	THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, it has been wonderful fun! It is so nice to have this little re-run of part
16	of it!
17	MISS LOVE: I was going to apologise, Sir, that you are hearing from me and not from
18	Mr. Brealey or Mr. Spitz. I am afraid you may not hear terribly loudly from me, but I shall
19	do the best I can.
20	THE CHAIRMAN: You are suffering, are you?
21	MISS LOVE: I would like to structure my submissions as follows: firstly, I do want to make a
22	few points about what this application is and is not about. Secondly, I want to touch very
23	briefly on the Rules position, the legal position. Thirdly, I would like to go into a few
24	aspects of the Visa litigation, and hopefully, in the course of that, pick up some of the points
25	that were made against me. Then I want to address this question of prejudice to Sainsbury's.
26	I was then going to go to exhibits, but it turns I do not need to do that. I will put down a
27	marker, not necessarily before you, Sir, but if that issue is raised there is likely to be a trawl
28	through. I hope to be brief. I am mindful this was down for an hour originally.
29	THE CHAIRMAN: Do not worry, things often escalate a bit.
30	MISS LOVE: Miss Rose spent a great deal of her written submissions and her submissions to
31	you this morning talking about fundamental constitutional principles and the principle of
32	open justice. Sir, as I think you observed, there really is not very much between us. We
33	agree that open justice is an important principle. We agree with what will ordinarily, and I
34	emphasise the word 'ordinarily' be consistent with the requirement of open justice.

Ordinarily, if a document is read in open court, one would expect it subsequently to be available. Ordinarily, if skeletons are used to, in effect, stand for or supplement oral submissions, one would expect them subsequently to be made available. Sir, I am not standing in front of you trying to turn back the tide to GIO Personal Investments and the pre-CPR position.

Another point, Sir, that I am afraid may have been a bit of a hare running from the skeleton, is that we are not taking a point about motive. We are not being 'sniffy' about the fact that the Visa entities want these for their own reasons.

Sir, I do respectfully still say that one gets something useful from the Dian case. Could I turn very briefly to tab 5 of the authorities bundle, and go to internal pagination 2958, para.30. One sees there, Sir, the sentence:

"The principle of open justice is primarily concerned with monitoring the decisionmaking process as it takes place, not with reviewing the process long after the event."

Sir, that does not mean that open justice goes out of the window if there are commercial reasons for going for the material, but it does rather put in context Miss Rose's submission that is not weighing our interests against theirs, there is a weighty public interest that falls on her side of the scales. There is no suggestion here that these materials are needed to check that you and Mr. Smith and Professor Beath are discharging properly your judicial function. They have transcripts, they have had note takers, this is about filling in the blanks for them. It does not make it wrong, it does not make it inappropriate to ask, but it is relevant.

Sir, the fourth point that we are agreed on is that open justice is not an absolute trump card, it is only a starting point. I think even Miss Rose accepted that there were circumstances in which there was sufficient prejudice that would outweigh the interests of open justice, and I have not heard the suggestion that the forms that prejudice could take are closed.
I had another case which I am not actually going to hand up because it went primarily to the exhibits question but it is, I think, rather a nice way of putting it by Mr. Justice Roth, in Eurasian Natural Resources:

"Although the authorities demonstrate that when a judge has read, or is presumed to have read documents for the purpose of a hearing that proceeds in open court those documents may thereby enter the public domain. They also show that this is only the prima facie position."

So that is the starting point but one does have to look at the parties' interests.

 Visa should get access to these documents. We accept that they can have copies of the documents they are seeking, that is a point that we have made on correspondence. It is a point that I have also made in para.22 of my skeleton argument, and I want to emphasise it again here. As far as Mr. Jowell's clients are concerned, we are willing for them to have it all. As far as Miss Rose's clients are concerned there is a question mark around quantum, but there is no denial of access here. We accept they can use the documents. We accept they can use them including in proceedings against us. The timings we have suggested would actually allow for that are that if Miss Rose and the other connsel for Visa Inc. thought that some aspects of our closings on liability was useful, they could take that into account in their submissions in the hearing which is set down for this autumn. THE CHAIRMAN: Can you just help me, I have just taken a note, you said Mr. Jowell's clients can have them all, and Miss Rose's clients can have them all apart from quantum in principle. Just explain to me again because I have been rather slow on the uptake on understanding why that should be, why the distinction? MISS LOVE: Sir, it might be helpful in that case if I turn to the points that I wanted to make in relation to THE CHAIRMAN: I any sorry, then take it in your order. MISS LOVE: Sir, we do say that this is not about a denial of open justice. You are doing a weighing exercise of the parties' private interests. Miss Rose and Mr. Jowell are basically saying "I want it all, and I want it now". We are saying: "That would harm our position in the Visa hearings" and it is a weighing exercise of that nature. Sir, if I could touch very briefly on the position under the Rules. You have already, I think, seen Rule 102 and expres	1	Sir, the fifth point that I do want to emphasise very much is that we are actually agreed that point that I have also made in para 22 of my skeleton argument, and I want to emphasise it again here. As far as Mr. Jowell's clients are concerned, we are willing for them to have it all. As far as Miss Rose's clients are concerned there is a question mark around quantum, but there is no denial of access here. We accept they can use the documents. We accept they can use them including in proceedings against us. The timings we have suggested would actually allow for that are that if Miss Rose and the other counsel for Visa Inc. thought that some aspects of our closings on liability was useful, they could take that into account in their submissions in the hearing which is set down for this autumn. THE CHAIRMAN: Can you just help me, I have just taken a note, you said Mr. Jowell's clients can have them all, and Miss Rose's clients can have them all apart from quantum in principle. Just explain to me again because I have been rather slow on the uptake on understanding why that should be, why the distinction? MISS LOVE: Sir, it might be helpful in that case if I turn to the points that I wanted to make in relation to THE CHAIRMAN: If you are going to deal with that? MISS LOVE: Sir, we do say that this is not about a denial of open justice. You are doing a weighing exercise of the parties' private interests. Miss Rose and Mr. Jowell are basically saying "I want it all, and I want it now". We are saying: "That would harm our position in the Visa hearings" and it is a weighing exercise of that nature. Sir, if I could touch very briefly on the position under the Rules. You have already, I think, seen Rule 102 and expressed some observations on that. We had proceeded on the basis that these materials were caught within Rule 102(1) which is the restriction. It is set out for convenience at p.6 of my skeleton argument. We had thought that to be the case, and we had thought that subpara.2 to, in effect, put the ordinary case position of the restriction bein	2	Visa should get access to these documents. We accept that they can have copies of the
5again here. As far as Mr. Jowell's clients are concerned, we are willing for them to have it6all. As far as Miss Rose's clients are concerned there is a question mark around quantum,7but there is no denial of access here. We accept they can use the documents. We accept8they can use them including in proceedings against us. The timings we have suggested9would actually allow for that are that if Miss Rose and the other counsel for Visa Inc.10thought that some aspects of our closings on liability was useful, they could take that into11account in their submissions in the hearing which is set down for this autumn.12THE CHAIRMAN: Can you just help me, I have just taken a note, you said Mr. Jowell's clients13can have them all, and Miss Rose's clients can have them all apart from quantum in14principle. Just explain to me again because I have been rather slow on the uptake on15understanding why that should be, why the distinction?16MISS LOVE: Sir, it might be helpful in that case if I turn to the points that I wanted to make in17relation to18THE CHAIRMAN: I am sorry, then take it in your order.20MISS LOVE: Sir, we do say that this is not about a denial of open justice. You are doing a22weighing exercise of the parties' private interests. Miss Rose and Mr. Jowell are basically23saying "I want it all, and I want it now". We are saying: "That would harm our position in24the Visa hearings" and it is a weighing exercise of that nature.25Sir, if I could touch very briefly on the position under the Rules. You have alread	3	documents they are seeking, that is a point that we have made on correspondence. It is a
6all. As far as Miss Rose's clients are concerned there is a question mark around quantum,7but there is no denial of access here. We accept they can use the documents. We accept8they can use them including in proceedings against us. The timings we have suggested9would actually allow for that are that if Miss Rose and the other counsel for Visa Inc.10thought that some aspects of our closings on liability was useful, they could take that into11account in their submissions in the hearing which is set down for this autumn.12THE CHAIRMAN: Can you just help me, I have just taken a note, you said Mr. Jowell's clients13can have them all, and Miss Rose's clients can have them all apart from quantum in14principle. Just explain to me again because I have been rather slow on the uptake on15understanding why that should be, why the distinction?16MISS LOVE: Sir, it might be helpful in that case if I turn to the points that I wanted to make in17relation to18THE CHAIRMAN: I gou are going to deal with that?19MISS LOVE: Sir, we do say that this is not about a denial of open justice. You are doing a20weighing exercise of the parties' private interests. Miss Rose and Mr. Jowell are basically23saying "I want it all, and I want it now". We are saying: "That would harm our position in24the Visa hearings" and it is a weighing exercise of that nature.25Sir, if I could touch very briefly on the position under the Rules. You have already, I think,26seen Rule 102 and expressed some observations on that. We had proceeded on the basis	4	point that I have also made in para.22 of my skeleton argument, and I want to emphasise it
7but there is no denial of access here. We accept they can use the documents. We accept they can use them including in proceedings against us. The timings we have suggested would actually allow for that are that if Miss Rose and the other counsel for Visa Inc.10thought that some aspects of our closings on liability was useful, they could take that into account in their submissions in the hearing which is set down for this autumn.11account in their submissions in the hearing which is set down for this autumn.12THE CHAIRMAN: Can you just help me, I have just taken a note, you said Mr. Jowell's clients can have them all, and Miss Rose's clients can have them all apart from quantum in principle. Just explain to me again because I have been rather slow on the uptake on understanding why that should be, why the distinction?16MISS LOVE: Sir, it might be helpful in that case if I turn to the points that I wanted to make in relation to17THE CHAIRMAN: If you are going to deal with that?19MISS LOVE: Sir, we do say that this is not about a denial of open justice. You are doing a weighing exercise of the parties' private interests. Miss Rose and Mr. Jowell are basically saying "I want it all, and I want it now". We are saying: "That would harm our position in the Visa hearings" and it is a weighing exercise of that nature.25Sir, if I could touch very briefly on the position under the Rules. You have already, I think, seen Rule 102 and expressed some observations on that. We had proceeded on the basis that these materials were caught within Rule 102(1) which is the restriction. It is set out for convenience at p.6 of my skeleton argument.26We had thought that to be the case, and we had thought that subpara.2 to, in effect, put the <br< td=""><td>5</td><td>again here. As far as Mr. Jowell's clients are concerned, we are willing for them to have it</td></br<>	5	again here. As far as Mr. Jowell's clients are concerned, we are willing for them to have it
8they can use them including in proceedings against us. The timings we have suggested9would actually allow for that are that if Miss Rose and the other counsel for Visa Inc.10thought that some aspects of our closings on liability was useful, they could take that into11account in their submissions in the hearing which is set down for this autumn.12THE CHAIRMAN: Can you just help me, I have just taken a note, you said Mr. Jowell's clients13can have them all, and Miss Rose's clients can have them all apart from quantum in14principle. Just explain to me again because I have been rather slow on the uptake on15understanding why that should be, why the distinction?16MISS LOVE: Sir, it might be helpful in that case if I turn to the points that I wanted to make in17relation to18THE CHAIRMAN: If you are going to deal with that?19MISS LOVE: Sir, we do say that this is not about a denial of open justice. You are doing a20weighing exercise of the parties' private interests. Miss Rose and Mr. Jowell are basically23saying "I want it all, and I want it now". We are saying: "That would harm our position in24the Visa hearings" and it is a weighing exercise of that nature.25Sir, if I could touch very briefly on the position under the Rules. You have already, I think,26seen Rule 102 and expressed some observations on that. We had proceeded on the basis27that these materials were caught within Rule 102(1) which is the restriction. It is set out for28whe had thought that to be the case, and we had thought that subpara.2 to, in	6	all. As far as Miss Rose's clients are concerned there is a question mark around quantum,
 would actually allow for that are that if Miss Rose and the other counsel for Visa Inc. thought that some aspects of our closings on liability was useful, they could take that into account in their submissions in the hearing which is set down for this autumn. THE CHAIRMAN: Can you just help me, I have just taken a note, you said Mr. Jowell's clients can have them all, and Miss Rose's clients can have them all apart from quantum in principle. Just explain to me again because I have been rather slow on the uptake on understanding why that should be, why the distinction? MISS LOVE: Sir, it might be helpful in that case if I turn to the points that I wanted to make in relation to THE CHAIRMAN: If you are going to deal with that? MISS LOVE: I intend to deal with it in the course of these proceedings. THE CHAIRMAN: I am sorry, then take it in your order. MISS LOVE: Sir, we do say that this is not about a denial of open justice. You are doing a weighing exercise of the parties' private interests. Miss Rose and Mr. Jowell are basically saying "I want it all, and I want it now". We are saying: "That would harm our position in the Visa hearings" and it is a weighing exercise of that nature. Sir, if I could touch very briefly on the position under the Rules. You have already, I think, seen Rule 102 and expressed some observations on that. We had proceeded on the basis that these materials were caught within Rule 102(1) which is the restriction. It is set out for convenience at p.6 of my skeleton argument. We had thought that to be the case, and we had thought that subpara.2 to, in effect, put the ordinary case position of the restriction being lifted when the documents were referred to at a public hearing, so this is, in a way, the analogue of CPR Rule 31.22. THE CHAIRMAN: I suppose if you were seeking Mas	7	but there is no denial of access here. We accept they can use the documents. We accept
10thought that some aspects of our closings on liability was useful, they could take that into11account in their submissions in the hearing which is set down for this autumn.12THE CHAIRMAN: Can you just help me, I have just taken a note, you said Mr. Jowell's clients13can have them all, and Miss Rose's clients can have them all apart from quantum in14principle. Just explain to me again because I have been rather slow on the uptake on15understanding why that should be, why the distinction?16MISS LOVE: Sir, it might be helpful in that case if I turn to the points that I wanted to make in17relation to18THE CHAIRMAN: If you are going to deal with that?19MISS LOVE: I intend to deal with it in the course of these proceedings.20THE CHAIRMAN: I am sorry, then take it in your order.21MISS LOVE: Sir, we do say that this is not about a denial of open justice. You are doing a22weighing exercise of the parties' private interests. Miss Rose and Mr. Jowell are basically23saying "I want it all, and I want it now". We are saying: "That would harm our position in24the Visa hearings" and it is a weighing exercise of that nature.25Sir, if I could touch very briefly on the position under the Rules. You have already, I think,26seen Rule 102 and expressed some observations on that. We had proceeded on the basis27that these materials were caught within Rule 102(1) which is the restriction. It is set out for28convenience at p.6 of my skeleton argument.29We had thought that to be the case, and we had thou	8	they can use them including in proceedings against us. The timings we have suggested
11account in their submissions in the hearing which is set down for this autumn.12THE CHAIRMAN: Can you just help me, I have just taken a note, you said Mr. Jowell's clients13can have them all, and Miss Rose's clients can have them all apart from quantum in14principle. Just explain to me again because I have been rather slow on the uptake on15understanding why that should be, why the distinction?16MISS LOVE: Sir, it might be helpful in that case if I turn to the points that I wanted to make in17relation to18THE CHAIRMAN: If you are going to deal with that?19MISS LOVE: I intend to deal with i in the course of these proceedings.20THE CHAIRMAN: I am sorry, then take it in your order.21MISS LOVE: Sir, we do say that this is not about a denial of open justice. You are doing a22weighing exercise of the parties' private interests. Miss Rose and Mr. Jowell are basically23saying "I want it all, and I want it now". We are saying: "That would harm our position in24the Visa hearings" and it is a weighing exercise of that nature.25Sir, if I could touch very briefly on the position under the Rules. You have already, I think,26seen Rule 102 and expressed some observations on that. We had proceeded on the basis27that these materials were caught within Rule 102(1) which is the restriction. It is set out for28convenience at p.6 of my skeleton argument.29We had thought that to be the case, and we had thought that subpara.2 to, in effect, put the30ordinary case position of the restriction being lift	9	would actually allow for that are that if Miss Rose and the other counsel for Visa Inc.
 THE CHAIRMAN: Can you just help me, I have just taken a note, you said Mr. Jowell's clients can have them all, and Miss Rose's clients can have them all apart from quantum in principle. Just explain to me again because I have been rather slow on the uptake on understanding why that should be, why the distinction? MISS LOVE: Sir, it might be helpful in that case if I turn to the points that I wanted to make in relation to THE CHAIRMAN: If you are going to deal with that? MISS LOVE: I intend to deal with it in the course of these proceedings. THE CHAIRMAN: I am sorry, then take it in your order. MISS LOVE: Sir, we do say that this is not about a denial of open justice. You are doing a weighing exercise of the parties' private interests. Miss Rose and Mr. Jowell are basically saying "I want it all, and I want it now". We are saying: "That would harm our position in the Visa hearings" and it is a weighing exercise of that nature. Sir, if I could touch very briefly on the position under the Rules. You have already, I think, seen Rule 102 and expressed some observations on that. We had proceeded on the basis that these materials were caught within Rule 102(1) which is the restriction. It is set out for convenience at p.6 of my skeleton argument. We had thought that to be the case, and we had thought that subpara.2 to, in effect, put the ordinary case position of the restriction being lifted when the documents were referred to at a public hearing, so this is, in a way, the analogue of CPR Rule 31.22. THE CHAIRMAN: I suppose if you were seeking MasterCard's documents from Sainsbury's, 	10	thought that some aspects of our closings on liability was useful, they could take that into can have them all, and Miss Rose's clients can have them all apart from quantum in principle. Just explain to me again because I have been rather slow on the uptake on understanding why that should be, why the distinction? MISS LOVE: Sir, it might be helpful in that case if I turn to the points that I wanted to make in relation to THE CHAIRMAN: If you are going to deal with that? MISS LOVE: I intend to deal with it in the course of these proceedings. THE CHAIRMAN: I am sorry, then take it in your order. MISS LOVE: Sir, we do say that this is not about a denial of open justice. You are doing a weighing exercise of the parties' private interests. Miss Rose and Mr. Jowell are basically saying "I want it all, and I want it now". We are saying: "That would harm our position in the Visa hearings" and it is a weighing exercise of that nature. Sir, if I could touch very briefly on the position under the Rules. You have already, I think, seen Rule 102 and expressed some observations on that. We had proceeded on the basis that these materials were caught within Rule 102(1) which is the restriction. It is set out for convenience at p.6 of my skeleton argument. We had thought that to be the case, and we had thought that subpara.2 to, in effect, put the ordinary case position of the restriction being lifted when the documents were referred to at a public hearing, so this is, in a way, the analogue of CPR Rule 31.22. THE CHAIRMAN: I suppose if you were seeking MasterCard's documents from Sainsbury's, 	11	account in their submissions in the hearing which is set down for this autumn.
14principle. Just explain to me again because I have been rather slow on the uptake on15understanding why that should be, why the distinction?16MISS LOVE: Sir, it might be helpful in that case if I turn to the points that I wanted to make in17relation to18THE CHAIRMAN: If you are going to deal with that?19MISS LOVE: I intend to deal with it in the course of these proceedings.20THE CHAIRMAN: I am sorry, then take it in your order.21MISS LOVE: Sir, we do say that this is not about a denial of open justice. You are doing a22weighing exercise of the parties' private interests. Miss Rose and Mr. Jowell are basically23saying "I want it all, and I want it now". We are saying: "That would harm our position in24the Visa hearings" and it is a weighing exercise of that nature.25Sir, if I could touch very briefly on the position under the Rules. You have already, I think,26seen Rule 102 and expressed some observations on that. We had proceeded on the basis27that these materials were caught within Rule 102(1) which is the restriction. It is set out for28convenience at p.6 of my skeleton argument.29We had thought that to be the case, and we had thought that subpara.2 to, in effect, put the30ordinary case position of the restriction being lifted when the documents were referred to at31a public hearing, so this is, in a way, the analogue of CPR Rule 31.22.32THE CHAIRMAN: I suppose if you were seeking MasterCard's documents from Sainsbury's,	12	THE CHAIRMAN: Can you just help me, I have just taken a note, you said Mr. Jowell's clients understanding why that should be, why the distinction? MISS LOVE: Sir, it might be helpful in that case if I turn to the points that I wanted to make in relation to THE CHAIRMAN: If you are going to deal with that? MISS LOVE: I intend to deal with it in the course of these proceedings. THE CHAIRMAN: I am sorry, then take it in your order. MISS LOVE: Sir, we do say that this is not about a denial of open justice. You are doing a weighing exercise of the parties' private interests. Miss Rose and Mr. Jowell are basically saying "I want it all, and I want it now". We are saying: "That would harm our position in the Visa hearings" and it is a weighing exercise of that nature. Sir, if I could touch very briefly on the position under the Rules. You have already, I think, seen Rule 102 and expressed some observations on that. We had proceeded on the basis that these materials were caught within Rule 102(1) which is the restriction. It is set out for convenience at p.6 of my skeleton argument. We had thought that to be the case, and we had thought that subpara.2 to, in effect, put the ordinary case position of the restriction being lifted when the documents were referred to at a public hearing, so this is, in a way, the analogue of CPR Rule 31.22. THE CHAIRMAN: I suppose if you were seeking MasterCard's documents from Sainsbury's, 	13	can have them all, and Miss Rose's clients can have them all apart from quantum in
 MISS LOVE: Sir, it might be helpful in that case if I turn to the points that I wanted to make in relation to THE CHAIRMAN: If you are going to deal with that? MISS LOVE: I intend to deal with it in the course of these proceedings. THE CHAIRMAN: I am sorry, then take it in your order. MISS LOVE: Sir, we do say that this is not about a denial of open justice. You are doing a weighing exercise of the parties' private interests. Miss Rose and Mr. Jowell are basically saying "I want it all, and I want it now". We are saying: "That would harm our position in the Visa hearings" and it is a weighing exercise of that nature. Sir, if I could touch very briefly on the position under the Rules. You have already, I think, seen Rule 102 and expressed some observations on that. We had proceeded on the basis that these materials were caught within Rule 102(1) which is the restriction. It is set out for convenience at p.6 of my skeleton argument. We had thought that to be the case, and we had thought that subpara.2 to, in effect, put the ordinary case position of the restriction being lifted when the documents were referred to at a public hearing, so this is, in a way, the analogue of CPR Rule 31.22. THE CHAIRMAN: I suppose if you were seeking MasterCard's documents from Sainsbury's, 	14	principle. Just explain to me again because I have been rather slow on the uptake on relation to THE CHAIRMAN: If you are going to deal with that? MISS LOVE: I intend to deal with it in the course of these proceedings. THE CHAIRMAN: I am sorry, then take it in your order. MISS LOVE: Sir, we do say that this is not about a denial of open justice. You are doing a weighing exercise of the parties' private interests. Miss Rose and Mr. Jowell are basically saying "I want it all, and I want it now". We are saying: "That would harm our position in the Visa hearings" and it is a weighing exercise of that nature. Sir, if I could touch very briefly on the position under the Rules. You have already, I think, seen Rule 102 and expressed some observations on that. We had proceeded on the basis that these materials were caught within Rule 102(1) which is the restriction. It is set out for convenience at p.6 of my skeleton argument. We had thought that to be the case, and we had thought that subpara.2 to, in effect, put the ordinary case position of the restriction being lifted when the documents were referred to at a public hearing, so this is, in a way, the analogue of CPR Rule 31.22. THE CHAIRMAN: I suppose if you were seeking MasterCard's documents from Sainsbury's, 	15	understanding why that should be, why the distinction?
 THE CHAIRMAN: If you are going to deal with that? MISS LOVE: I intend to deal with it in the course of these proceedings. THE CHAIRMAN: I am sorry, then take it in your order. MISS LOVE: Sir, we do say that this is not about a denial of open justice. You are doing a weighing exercise of the parties' private interests. Miss Rose and Mr. Jowell are basically saying "I want it all, and I want it now". We are saying: "That would harm our position in the Visa hearings" and it is a weighing exercise of that nature. Sir, if I could touch very briefly on the position under the Rules. You have already, I think, seen Rule 102 and expressed some observations on that. We had proceeded on the basis that these materials were caught within Rule 102(1) which is the restriction. It is set out for convenience at p.6 of my skeleton argument. We had thought that to be the case, and we had thought that subpara.2 to, in effect, put the ordinary case position of the restriction being lifted when the documents were referred to at a public hearing, so this is, in a way, the analogue of CPR Rule 31.22. THE CHAIRMAN: I suppose if you were seeking MasterCard's documents from Sainsbury's, 	16	MISS LOVE: Sir, it might be helpful in that case if I turn to the points that I wanted to make in
 MISS LOVE: I intend to deal with it in the course of these proceedings. THE CHAIRMAN: I am sorry, then take it in your order. MISS LOVE: Sir, we do say that this is not about a denial of open justice. You are doing a weighing exercise of the parties' private interests. Miss Rose and Mr. Jowell are basically saying "I want it all, and I want it now". We are saying: "That would harm our position in the Visa hearings" and it is a weighing exercise of that nature. Sir, if I could touch very briefly on the position under the Rules. You have already, I think, seen Rule 102 and expressed some observations on that. We had proceeded on the basis that these materials were caught within Rule 102(1) which is the restriction. It is set out for convenience at p.6 of my skeleton argument. We had thought that to be the case, and we had thought that subpara.2 to, in effect, put the ordinary case position of the restriction being lifted when the documents were referred to at a public hearing, so this is, in a way, the analogue of CPR Rule 31.22. THE CHAIRMAN: I suppose if you were seeking MasterCard's documents from Sainsbury's, 	17	relation to
 THE CHAIRMAN: I am sorry, then take it in your order. MISS LOVE: Sir, we do say that this is not about a denial of open justice. You are doing a weighing exercise of the parties' private interests. Miss Rose and Mr. Jowell are basically saying "I want it all, and I want it now". We are saying: "That would harm our position in the Visa hearings" and it is a weighing exercise of that nature. Sir, if I could touch very briefly on the position under the Rules. You have already, I think, seen Rule 102 and expressed some observations on that. We had proceeded on the basis that these materials were caught within Rule 102(1) which is the restriction. It is set out for convenience at p.6 of my skeleton argument. We had thought that to be the case, and we had thought that subpara.2 to, in effect, put the ordinary case position of the restriction being lifted when the documents were referred to at a public hearing, so this is, in a way, the analogue of CPR Rule 31.22. THE CHAIRMAN: I suppose if you were seeking MasterCard's documents from Sainsbury's, 	18	THE CHAIRMAN: If you are going to deal with that?
 MISS LOVE: Sir, we do say that this is not about a denial of open justice. You are doing a weighing exercise of the parties' private interests. Miss Rose and Mr. Jowell are basically saying "I want it all, and I want it now". We are saying: "That would harm our position in the Visa hearings" and it is a weighing exercise of that nature. Sir, if I could touch very briefly on the position under the Rules. You have already, I think, seen Rule 102 and expressed some observations on that. We had proceeded on the basis that these materials were caught within Rule 102(1) which is the restriction. It is set out for convenience at p.6 of my skeleton argument. We had thought that to be the case, and we had thought that subpara.2 to, in effect, put the ordinary case position of the restriction being lifted when the documents were referred to at a public hearing, so this is, in a way, the analogue of CPR Rule 31.22. THE CHAIRMAN: I suppose if you were seeking MasterCard's documents from Sainsbury's, weighing exercise of the parties' private interests. Miss Rose and Mr. Jowell are basically saying "I want it all, and I want it now". We are saying: "That would harm our position in the Visa hearings" and it is a weighing exercise of that nature. Sir, if I could touch very briefly on the position under the Rules. You have already, I think, seen Rule 102 and expressed some observations on that. We had proceeded on the basis that these materials were caught within Rule 102(1) which is the restriction. It is set out for convenience at p.6 of my skeleton argument. We had thought that to be the case, and we had thought that subpara.2 to, in effect, put the ordinary case position of the restriction being lifted when the documents were referred to at a public hearing, so this is, in a way, the analogue of CPR Rule 31.22. THE CHAIRMAN: I suppose if you were seeking MasterCard's documents from Sainsbury's, 	19	MISS LOVE: I intend to deal with it in the course of these proceedings.
 saying "I want it all, and I want it now". We are saying: "That would harm our position in the Visa hearings" and it is a weighing exercise of that nature. Sir, if I could touch very briefly on the position under the Rules. You have already, I think, seen Rule 102 and expressed some observations on that. We had proceeded on the basis that these materials were caught within Rule 102(1) which is the restriction. It is set out for convenience at p.6 of my skeleton argument. We had thought that to be the case, and we had thought that subpara.2 to, in effect, put the ordinary case position of the restriction being lifted when the documents were referred to at a public hearing, so this is, in a way, the analogue of CPR Rule 31.22. THE CHAIRMAN: I suppose if you were seeking MasterCard's documents from Sainsbury's, the Visa hearings" and it is a weighing exercise of that nature. Sir, if I could touch very briefly on the position under the Rules. You have already, I think, seen Rule 102 and expressed some observations on that. We had proceeded on the basis that these materials were caught within Rule 102(1) which is the restriction. It is set out for convenience at p.6 of my skeleton argument. We had thought that to be the case, and we had thought that subpara.2 to, in effect, put the ordinary case position of the restriction being lifted when the documents were referred to at a public hearing, so this is, in a way, the analogue of CPR Rule 31.22. THE CHAIRMAN: I suppose if you were seeking MasterCard's documents from Sainsbury's, 	20	THE CHAIRMAN: I am sorry, then take it in your order.
 Sir, if I could touch very briefly on the position under the Rules. You have already, I think, seen Rule 102 and expressed some observations on that. We had proceeded on the basis that these materials were caught within Rule 102(1) which is the restriction. It is set out for convenience at p.6 of my skeleton argument. We had thought that to be the case, and we had thought that subpara.2 to, in effect, put the ordinary case position of the restriction being lifted when the documents were referred to at a public hearing, so this is, in a way, the analogue of CPR Rule 31.22. THE CHAIRMAN: I suppose if you were seeking MasterCard's documents from Sainsbury's, 	20 21	THE CHAIRMAN: I am sorry, then take it in your order. MISS LOVE: Sir, we do say that this is not about a denial of open justice. You are doing a seen Rule 102 and expressed some observations on that. We had proceeded on the basis that these materials were caught within Rule 102(1) which is the restriction. It is set out for convenience at p.6 of my skeleton argument. We had thought that to be the case, and we had thought that subpara.2 to, in effect, put the ordinary case position of the restriction being lifted when the documents were referred to at a public hearing, so this is, in a way, the analogue of CPR Rule 31.22. THE CHAIRMAN: I suppose if you were seeking MasterCard's documents from Sainsbury's, 	20 21 22	THE CHAIRMAN: I am sorry, then take it in your order.MISS LOVE: Sir, we do say that this is not about a denial of open justice. You are doing a weighing exercise of the parties' private interests. Miss Rose and Mr. Jowell are basically that these materials were caught within Rule 102(1) which is the restriction. It is set out for convenience at p.6 of my skeleton argument. We had thought that to be the case, and we had thought that subpara.2 to, in effect, put the ordinary case position of the restriction being lifted when the documents were referred to at a public hearing, so this is, in a way, the analogue of CPR Rule 31.22. THE CHAIRMAN: I suppose if you were seeking MasterCard's documents from Sainsbury's, 	20 21 22 23	 THE CHAIRMAN: I am sorry, then take it in your order. MISS LOVE: Sir, we do say that this is not about a denial of open justice. You are doing a weighing exercise of the parties' private interests. Miss Rose and Mr. Jowell are basically saying "I want it all, and I want it now". We are saying: "That would harm our position in convenience at p.6 of my skeleton argument. We had thought that to be the case, and we had thought that subpara.2 to, in effect, put the ordinary case position of the restriction being lifted when the documents were referred to at a public hearing, so this is, in a way, the analogue of CPR Rule 31.22. THE CHAIRMAN: I suppose if you were seeking MasterCard's documents from Sainsbury's, 	20 21 22 23 24	 THE CHAIRMAN: I am sorry, then take it in your order. MISS LOVE: Sir, we do say that this is not about a denial of open justice. You are doing a weighing exercise of the parties' private interests. Miss Rose and Mr. Jowell are basically saying "I want it all, and I want it now". We are saying: "That would harm our position in the Visa hearings" and it is a weighing exercise of that nature.
 We had thought that to be the case, and we had thought that subpara.2 to, in effect, put the ordinary case position of the restriction being lifted when the documents were referred to at a public hearing, so this is, in a way, the analogue of CPR Rule 31.22. THE CHAIRMAN: I suppose if you were seeking MasterCard's documents from Sainsbury's, 	 20 21 22 23 24 25 	 THE CHAIRMAN: I am sorry, then take it in your order. MISS LOVE: Sir, we do say that this is not about a denial of open justice. You are doing a weighing exercise of the parties' private interests. Miss Rose and Mr. Jowell are basically saying "I want it all, and I want it now". We are saying: "That would harm our position in the Visa hearings" and it is a weighing exercise of that nature. Sir, if I could touch very briefly on the position under the Rules. You have already, I think,
 30 ordinary case position of the restriction being lifted when the documents were referred to at 31 a public hearing, so this is, in a way, the analogue of CPR Rule 31.22. 32 THE CHAIRMAN: I suppose if you were seeking MasterCard's documents from Sainsbury's, 	 20 21 22 23 24 25 26 	 THE CHAIRMAN: I am sorry, then take it in your order. MISS LOVE: Sir, we do say that this is not about a denial of open justice. You are doing a weighing exercise of the parties' private interests. Miss Rose and Mr. Jowell are basically saying "I want it all, and I want it now". We are saying: "That would harm our position in the Visa hearings" and it is a weighing exercise of that nature. Sir, if I could touch very briefly on the position under the Rules. You have already, I think, seen Rule 102 and expressed some observations on that. We had proceeded on the basis
 a public hearing, so this is, in a way, the analogue of CPR Rule 31.22. THE CHAIRMAN: I suppose if you were seeking MasterCard's documents from Sainsbury's, 	20 21 22 23 24 25 26 27	 THE CHAIRMAN: I am sorry, then take it in your order. MISS LOVE: Sir, we do say that this is not about a denial of open justice. You are doing a weighing exercise of the parties' private interests. Miss Rose and Mr. Jowell are basically saying "I want it all, and I want it now". We are saying: "That would harm our position in the Visa hearings" and it is a weighing exercise of that nature. Sir, if I could touch very briefly on the position under the Rules. You have already, I think, seen Rule 102 and expressed some observations on that. We had proceeded on the basis that these materials were caught within Rule 102(1) which is the restriction. It is set out for
32 THE CHAIRMAN: I suppose if you were seeking MasterCard's documents from Sainsbury's,	20 21 22 23 24 25 26 27 28	 THE CHAIRMAN: I am sorry, then take it in your order. MISS LOVE: Sir, we do say that this is not about a denial of open justice. You are doing a weighing exercise of the parties' private interests. Miss Rose and Mr. Jowell are basically saying "I want it all, and I want it now". We are saying: "That would harm our position in the Visa hearings" and it is a weighing exercise of that nature. Sir, if I could touch very briefly on the position under the Rules. You have already, I think, seen Rule 102 and expressed some observations on that. We had proceeded on the basis that these materials were caught within Rule 102(1) which is the restriction. It is set out for convenience at p.6 of my skeleton argument.
	 20 21 22 23 24 25 26 27 28 29 	 THE CHAIRMAN: I am sorry, then take it in your order. MISS LOVE: Sir, we do say that this is not about a denial of open justice. You are doing a weighing exercise of the parties' private interests. Miss Rose and Mr. Jowell are basically saying "I want it all, and I want it now". We are saying: "That would harm our position in the Visa hearings" and it is a weighing exercise of that nature. Sir, if I could touch very briefly on the position under the Rules. You have already, I think, seen Rule 102 and expressed some observations on that. We had proceeded on the basis that these materials were caught within Rule 102(1) which is the restriction. It is set out for convenience at p.6 of my skeleton argument. We had thought that to be the case, and we had thought that subpara.2 to, in effect, put the
and MasterCard were out of the picture you might say that 102(1) was in play, but because	 20 21 22 23 24 25 26 27 28 29 30 	 THE CHAIRMAN: I am sorry, then take it in your order. MISS LOVE: Sir, we do say that this is not about a denial of open justice. You are doing a weighing exercise of the parties' private interests. Miss Rose and Mr. Jowell are basically saying "I want it all, and I want it now". We are saying: "That would harm our position in the Visa hearings" and it is a weighing exercise of that nature. Sir, if I could touch very briefly on the position under the Rules. You have already, I think, seen Rule 102 and expressed some observations on that. We had proceeded on the basis that these materials were caught within Rule 102(1) which is the restriction. It is set out for convenience at p.6 of my skeleton argument. We had thought that to be the case, and we had thought that subpara.2 to, in effect, put the ordinary case position of the restriction being lifted when the documents were referred to at
	 20 21 22 23 24 25 26 27 28 29 30 31 	 THE CHAIRMAN: I am sorry, then take it in your order. MISS LOVE: Sir, we do say that this is not about a denial of open justice. You are doing a weighing exercise of the parties' private interests. Miss Rose and Mr. Jowell are basically saying "I want it all, and I want it now". We are saying: "That would harm our position in the Visa hearings" and it is a weighing exercise of that nature. Sir, if I could touch very briefly on the position under the Rules. You have already, I think, seen Rule 102 and expressed some observations on that. We had proceeded on the basis that these materials were caught within Rule 102(1) which is the restriction. It is set out for convenience at p.6 of my skeleton argument. We had thought that to be the case, and we had thought that subpara.2 to, in effect, put the ordinary case position of the restriction being lifted when the documents were referred to at a public hearing, so this is, in a way, the analogue of CPR Rule 31.22.

 obviously handed around to everybody, including the court, it does not seem that it can MISS LOVE: Sir, I hear what you are saying. Certainly, just by way of context, we had assure that the 102(1) restriction remained in force that part of these documents were confiden and that is why you never received an application from us under 102(6). It is not that we had some ingenious tactical manoeuvre, or just were not bothered, that is what we hone
 4 that the 102(1) restriction remained in force that part of these documents were confiden 5 and that is why you never received an application from us under 102(6). It is not that we 	ned
5 and that is why you never received an application from us under 102(6). It is not that w tial,
6 had some ingenious tactical manoeuvre or just were not bothered that is what we hope	ve and bone ingenious thereat manocavie, or just were not bounded, that is what we note	stly
7 thought the position was. If the fact is that instead we are outside 102(1) we say that, g	iven
8 the inherent jurisdiction and given the 102(5) provisions, it actually makes little different	nce.
9 The substantive question you are grappling with is the same.
10 I do confess, Sir, we do have some difficulty with this proposition that para. 9.66 of the 11 Guide confers, I think Miss Rose said it was 'a duty', a sort of freestanding duty for us	tO
12 start running off non-confidential versions of all of our documents. We note it is the G	uide,
13 not the Rules. The Rules take precedence; it would be rather surprising if that duty had	not
14 found its way into the 100-odd pages. We also note in this case, I am told it is irrelevan	it,
15 we disagree, that our documents are covered here by two confidentiality rings, most of	them
16 were originally disclosed in their entirety into a High Court confidentiality ring.
17 THE CHAIRMAN: That was simply because at that stage nobody had done the exercise and 18 therefore
19 MISS LOVE: A happy day awaited, Sir. That happy day came when we transferred to the C	AT,
20 Sir.
21 THE CHAIRMAN: Exactly.
22 MISS LOVE: And your own order of 27 th January.
23 THE CHAIRMAN: By then the exercise I think had more or less been completed of the
24 'yellowing' and the 'blueing' had it not? It was then possible, as it were, whether you o	all it
25 'supersede', 'replace' or simply 'overlay' the CAT order from that point on there were 26 confidential and non-confidential bits, and that is how the documents were treated.
27 MISS LOVE: I think we take the language of 'overlay' given that your order of 27 th January	did
28 expressly acknowledge and keep in force the High Court order. I am not going to invite	e
29 you, Sir, to turn it up, behind tab 12 of the hearing bundle, but we are slightly nonpluss	ed
30 that we can have these two overlaid confidentiality rings, and yet find ourselves subject	to 31 some duty to start running up and handing out non-confidential versions if Miss Rose is 32 right, but I will leave it there, because 33 THE CHAIRMAN: I do not think that is going to be a real issue, frankly. We know of the
34 documents that they want, and you are in principle willing to give, there are versions will	nich

- 1 can very quickly be turned into non-confidential. They are not actually non-confidential at 2 the moment because they are not redacted, are they? So there is an exercise there, is there 3 not, which is, albeit, relatively straightforward will take some time. 4 MISS LOVE: If we were here talking about the exhibits I would be telling you a lot more, Sir, 5 about that exercise, but we are not, happily. 6 THE CHAIRMAN: Mercifully, we are not. 7 MISS LOVE: I then want to turn on to my third point which you have already touched upon
 - which is the background to the Visa proceedings. That is summarised in paras. 8 through to 12 of my skeleton argument, and as you have, observed, Sir, with the thinking of Mr. Justice Phillips, this is going to take over a year to get between the two stages of liability and quantum.
 - One point that I do want to pick up here is one that Miss Rose made orally and Mr. Jowell, I think, echoed in his skeleton argument about the fact that we issued proceedings against MasterCard and then Visa, both in the Chancery Division originally, one diverged. The suggestion seems to be that because of that we have basically given up on any right to ask this Tribunal to do anything that would prevent Visa from having any kind of advantage in trial preparation.
- 18 First, there is a limit in the circumstances about how far this 'you started it' point will go, 19 because, yes, we did issue proceedings against one card scheme and then the other, but we 20 did not suggest or request this jointly managed consolidation, I think that was at the request of Visa, or this two stage split which is what is imposed - it is going to be a gap of about 22 two years between this Tribunal's hearing of the MasterCard proceedings and the quantum 23 trial. So, fair enough, there is a limit to where it takes one.
 - The second point is I do take issue with the reasoning of 'you signed up for some risk of some prejudice, so you cannot object to a racing certainty of lots of prejudice'. Some things have happened that will cause some asymmetry, they had a representative. Miss Rose suggested in her skeleton argument that more things might happen. I think she said it was likely that the judgment would be available in these proceedings. It may be, it may not. I am not asking that in a questioning tone of voice – let the transcript record – but we are still entitled to ask this Tribunal to take steps to limit the prejudice, it does not become----
 - THE CHAIRMAN: Just explain the prejudice to me. It could be that there is some advantage in Visa's experts, and so on, seeing the material earlier than they might have seen it, or subject to Mr. Jowell's disclosure point, obviously.
- 34 MISS LOVE: Which I will come on to.

9

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

21

24

25

26

27

28

29

30

31

32

1	THE CHAIRMAN: Which you will come on to. But, leave that to one side for the moment.
2	Okay, it might be nice to see it, or it might be a huge disadvantage to see it because people
3	spend an awful lot of time looking at it, and wondering, scratching their heads about it and
4	then find it does not take them anywhere; that is possible too, so it could be an advantage or
5	disadvantage, but why is it a prejudice? Why is it actually a prejudice to your clients?
6	MISS LOVE: That is the nub of it, they get given more than what they would otherwise have had
7	and they get given it earlier. They are basically going to see pretty significant chunks of our
8	case on liability and quantum. They are going to see our evidence. They are going to see
9	our submissions based on that evidence. They are also going to see the MasterCard side of
10	it, so what MasterCard were saying in response. So they are going to see what we are
11	arguing, what the factual basis for that argument was, what the experts said in support of
12	that argument, and what MasterCard make of it, and they are going to see that over a year
13	before they are going to see, in the case of quantum, the analogue evidence in the Visa
14	proceedings.
15	I apparently, other than being taken to task for the use of the word "patently" I am told that
16	there should have been a witness statement put in to explain basically what happens in trial
17	preparation.
18	THE CHAIRMAN: What is this, para. 20-something, is it not?
19	MISS LOVE: Yes. There is a limit to how much one can say here because we say this is pretty
20	obvious. They have a year's head start to think about these things, to think about what they
21	are going to say about them, to think about how they might respond. This is a lot of time.
22	This is not an extra fortnight to finalise your expert report. This is not having a weekend to
23	go over your skeleton and dot i's, and cross t's. There is a lot of people, you are seeing only
24	a fraction of their combined counsel teams. There are solicitors, there are economists, who
25	are ready to start poring over this material, however fun or productive we may think it is,
26	and they will have a year to do it.
27	THE CHAIRMAN: They will have a year to look at the transcripts too, and they will get quite a
28	lot out of the transcripts, will they not, anyway? It is not as though they are not going to be
29	able to know the drift of quite a lot of this.
30	MISS LOVE: Not necessarily on quantum, Sir. As you will recall, there were chunks of the
31	hearings in private.
32	THE CHAIRMAN: There were chunks that were not in private, even on the quantum side.
33	MISS LOVE: Sir, I submit it is an instinctive point, it is a point that one can readily grasp. You
34	have had the privilege of seeing this material and you may have your own thoughts about what you would do if you had it for a year longer, but one can see readily that there is a lot of it, and it makes a difference to trial preparation. One can see that there is a year's head start and the very fact they may or may not have transcripts, Sir, that cuts both ways; why compound it by letting them fill in every single blank.

THE CHAIRMAN: Is it so bad? Sometimes there are delays, as in this case, with quantum. I am not sure the quantum delay in the Commercial Court was designed, as it were, to keep people in the dark. It was probably to limit the amount of work and possibly to save some money, depending on what happened in the liability trials, and so on. What is wrong with having material sooner rather than later in litigation, is that not often quite a good thing because it might help settlements, it might get people on the right track quicker, and might save costs later? I am just not totally convinced that it is such a bad thing. After all, they will not be finding out anything that your side do not know, so it could be said to be putting it on a more even playing field.

MISS LOVE: They will see what we are saying and what MasterCard had to say in response to it. Do they like that response? Can they formulate other responses? Can they formulate better responses? We do not know what their response is going to be.

THE CHAIRMAN: It could be an advantage to them, I agree. It could be an advantage to them, and I suppose, by the same token if the other side of that coin is disadvantage to you then, okay, it could be an equivalent disadvantage to you but I am not sure that is a terribly powerful factor in the context of this case, the fact that they have the transcripts and so on.

MISS LOVE: Sir, that is the concern. We could flip as easily and say that if that is the case, and there are other case management considerations that have caused this timing then what exactly would the prejudice be in waiting, it really was intended to streamline matters and to stop everyone doing more work than they needed to, but it is a pretty simple and intuitive point, Sir, which is, for what it is worth, there is a year's head start. I do emphasise it is not just a year's head start about what we are saying, it is a year's head start of seeing what MasterCard had to say about what we are saying and having a chance to think about that.
THE CHAIRMAN: While you are on it, did I misunderstand what you said – you said that you were agreeable to them having these documents, Mr. Jowell's client will get all the documents. I was not quite sure, I am still struggling with how it is that their clients are

MISS LOVE: Sir, at this point it might be helpful to circle back on your previous question about the Commercial Court proceedings. There are very different arrangements for phase 1 and phase 2, affecting the very different nature of what is at stake, and I have discussed this in being put in a different position.

1	my skeleton argument at paras. 10 and 11. I do think it might be helpful for us to turn up
2	briefly to turn up the orders of Mr. Justice Hamblen and Mr. Justice Phillips. Could I ask
3	you, Sir, to start at tab 8, p. 99, Mr. Justice Phillips made an order in the Phase 1
4	proceedings. You asked about whether there was some sort of mutual disclosure
5	arrangement in place. You see, first, at para. 15, in essence provision for exchange of
6	material as between us and Miss Rose's clients, and in essence everyone gets what everyone
7	else has had, and will get at the same time future material.
8	One further sees in 16 any pleading further information, witness statement, expert report or
9	written submission served or to be served in connection with the Phase 1 trial, to be served
10	on the parties. Any evidence stands as evidence in all other claims for the purposes of
11	Phase 1.
12	It may also be worth looking at the confidentiality order of Mr. Justice Hamblen and your
13	Lordship will find that at tab 5, p. 58, I think it begins. That is where the confidentiality
14	order starts. The critical part is then over the page to p.60, and one sees there the contrast
15	between para. 3, which deals with permitted use in Phase 1, saying it:
16	" shall not apply to prevent any Party from using documents disclosed in
17	relation to the Phase 1 Issues in any one of the Proceedings in any and/or all of
18	the other Proceedings."
19	Then in 4:
20	"CPR 31.22 shall continue to apply in relation to Phase 2 disclosure pending
21	further discussion between the Parties."
22	And liberty to apply. Miss Rose's answer, when you asked whether that had been
23	addressed was "not yet", whether there had been an order? "Not yet", and the answer is
24	"No", there has not been. That is an issue between us.
25	The position overall, Sir, as you have seen, is that basically in Phase 1, we are "all in this
26	together" as Mr. Osborne would put it, because the evidence in everyone's claims is
27	standing as evidence in everyone else's, and even though they are not a party to the claim
28	against us Visa Inc. is going to get all of our evidence.
29	THE CHAIRMAN: Do not go too fast. Yes?
30	MISS LOVE: In Phase 2, as things stand, the evidence that we put forward is going to Visa
31	Europe only, or Mr. Jowell's crew of clients, and it is going to be for use only in the
32	Sainsbury's and Visa claim only, and the same will apply to their evidence to us. I do say,
33	Sir, that that rather underlies the difference between the issues – I am sure I do not need to

1	remind you that the liability stage focuses largely on issues of relevant market, the MIFs,
2	why they are there, how they are set, level, what would happen if they were not set.
3	THE CHAIRMAN: There is more confidential material in the Phase 2?
4	MISS LOVE: The quantum stage the figures that pass on are very focused on the individual
5	claimant, on its pricing and, Sir, you recall it was specific to Sainsbury's, a lot of it was very
6	highly sensitive, and I would add that even if one takes into account the possibility of
7	confidentiality redactions, there is still a lot of information there about the inner workings of
8	our business. Phase 2, as we perceive it, has been more analogous to a series of discrete one
9	to one mini-trials – I am not sure that that is not a controversial description but that is how
10	we see it on our side.
11	That does have a bearing, I do respectfully say when one is asking with reference to Miss
12	Rose and her clients, who are not parties to the claim, who are not going to get this material
13	through the Commercial Court, about what the interest is and what the balance between our
14	interest and theirs is and them having it. Indeed, what use the non-confidential version will
15	be to them in these claimant sensitive issues.
16	THE CHAIRMAN: I suppose, subject to any applications that are made for specific disclosure
17	and all the rest of it
18	MISS LOVE: They can make applications to the Commercial Court, they can raise it again.
19	Sir, just to round out on a couple of points here. First, Mr. Jowell and our apparently
20	deficient disclosure. We do not necessarily agree, it will not surprise you to hear, that our
21	standard disclosure in the Commercial Court proceedings has been deficient, bearing in
22	mind that these documents were produced for use in other proceedings, and the
23	confidentiality rings. The short answer to this is even if Mr. Jowell has a point it is not a
24	matter for this Tribunal. The adequacy of our disclosure in the Commercial Court
25	proceedings is a matter for the Commercial Court, and Mr. Jowell, I think, tacitly accepted
26	that when he put it on record that they might make this, that or the other application.
27	There is, obviously, an irony here in that when it comes to timetable Mr. Jowell and Miss
28	Rose are saying that this Tribunal should not take into account the Commercial Court
29	proceedings and the Commercial Court issues, and if that is right the same must apply to
30	disclosure. Even if he had a point it is a point that he can make in front of Mr. Justice
31	Phillips.
32	The second point is the one about prejudice to them because of others having received our
33	documents. That is said to be discriminatory and to show that what we are hiding behind is
34	essentially a fig leaf.

2 application and the Ocado one. 3 THE CHAIRMAN: I was shown one by Miss Rose in the bundle, but I am not sure I have seen the other one. Perhaps it is in very similar terms. 5 MISS LOVE: I think behind tab 12 you will see the Arcadia order at p.148. 6 THE CHAIRMAN: One is behind tab 4, is it not, and one, as you say, is behind tab 12. 7 MISS LOVE: The final version that is signed by everyone is behind tab 12. 8 THE CHAIRMAN: So that is the only one one needs to look at, is it? 9 MISS LOVE: There is also an Ocado one but that is rather different because they were only seeking written closing submissions but that is at p.151. 11 THE CHAIRMAN: So the one I was shown at tab 4 is not a final – it is signed. 12 MISS LOVE: It is but it is not signed by everyone. 13 THE CHAIRMAN: It is signed by Stewarts Law, MdR and Jones Day. 14 MISS LOVE: Sorry, it is the signed one. First, we do say that you just cannot equate the question about whether we would be prejudiced in adversarial proceedings by giving the other side an extra year to polish their case on quantum with the implications of giving another retailer sight of our evidence on liability a couple of weeks before the deadline for the exchange of expert reports. All that there really is by way of difference is, first, this two-week wrinkle in timing of 20 th May, and secondly, the closing submissions, the fact that the closing submissions will be provided in one piece in the Arcadia application 10 21<	1	You have copies of the two consent orders in relation to the other matters, the Arcadia
3 THE CHAIRMAN: 1 was shown one by Miss Rose in the bundle, but 1 am not sure I have seen 4 the other one. Perhaps it is in very similar terms. 5 MISS LOVE: 1 think behind tab 12 you will see the Arcadia order at p.148. 6 THE CHAIRMAN: One is behind tab 4, is it not, and one, as you say, is behind tab 12. 7 MISS LOVE: The final version that is signed by everyone is behind tab 12. 8 THE CHAIRMAN: So that is the only one one needs to look at, is it? 9 MISS LOVE: There is also an Ocado one but that is rather different because they were only 10 seeking written closing submissions but that is at p.151. 11 THE CHAIRMAN: So the one I was shown at tab 4 is not a final – it is signed. 12 MISS LOVE: It is but it is not signed by everyone. 13 THE CHAIRMAN: It is signed by Stewarts Law, MdR and Jones Day. 14 MISS LOVE: Sorry, it is the signed one. First, we do say that you just cannot equate the 15 question about whether we would be prejudiced in adversarial proceedings by giving the 16 other retailer sight of our evidence on liability a couple of weeks before the deadline for 18 the exchange of expert reports. All that there really is by way of difference is, first, this 19 two-week wrinkle in timing of 20 th May, and secondly, the closing submissions, th	2	•
MISS LOVE: I think behind tab 12 you will see the Arcadia order at p.148. THE CHAIRMAN: One is behind tab 4, is it not, and one, as you say, is behind tab 12. MISS LOVE: The final version that is signed by everyone is behind tab 12. THE CHAIRMAN: So that is the only one one needs to look at, is it? MISS LOVE: There is also an Ocado one but that is rather different because they were only seeking written closing submissions but that is at p.151. THE CHAIRMAN: So the one I was shown at tab 4 is not a final – it is signed. MISS LOVE: It is but it is not signed by everyone. THE CHAIRMAN: It is signed by Stewarts Law, MdR and Jones Day. MISS LOVE: Sorry, it is the signed one. First, we do say that you just cannot equate the question about whether we would be prejudiced in adversarial proceedings by giving the other side an extra year to polish their case on quantum with the implications of giving another retailer sight of our evidence on liability a couple of weeks before the deadline for the exchange of expert reports. All that there really is by way of difference is, first, this two-week wrinkle in timing of 20 th May, and secondly, the closing submissions, the fact that the closing submissions will be provided in one piece in the Arcadia application THE CHAIRMAN: They will get all the quantum stuff too? MISS LOVE: No, the expert evidence, which I think is the real meat of it here, the Crown Jewels here, that is in two stages. They do not get ours at all. They do get MasterCard's but only at the relevant time, Phase 2. THE CHAIRMAN: They do not get yours at all under this order? <td< td=""><td>3</td><td>THE CHAIRMAN: I was shown one by Miss Rose in the bundle, but I am not sure I have seen</td></td<>	3	THE CHAIRMAN: I was shown one by Miss Rose in the bundle, but I am not sure I have seen
 THE CHAIRMAN: One is behind tab 4, is it not, and one, as you say, is behind tab 12. THE CHAIRMAN: So that is the only one one needs to look at, is it? MISS LOVE: There is also an Ocado one but that is rather different because they were only seeking written closing submissions but that is at p. 151. THE CHAIRMAN: So the one I was shown at tab 4 is not a final – it is signed. MISS LOVE: It is but it is not signed by everyone. THE CHAIRMAN: It is signed by everyone. THE CHAIRMAN: It is signed by Stewarts Law, MdR and Jones Day. MISS LOVE: Sorry, it is the signed one. First, we do say that you just cannot equate the question about whether we would be prejudiced in adversarial proceedings by giving the other side an extra year to polish their case on quantum with the implications of giving another retailer sight of our evidence on liability a couple of weeks before the deadline for the exchange of expert reports. All that there really is by way of difference is, first, this two-week wrinkle in timing of 20th May, and secondly, the closing submissions, the fact that the closing submissions will be provided in one piece in the Arcadia application THE CHAIRMAN: They will get all the quantum stuff too? MISS LOVE: No, the expert evidence, which I think is the real meat of it here, the Crown Jewels here, that is in two stages. They do not get ours at all. They do get MasterCard's but only at the relevant time, Phase 2. THE CHAIRMAN: They do not get yours at all under this order? MISS LOVE: Under this order, no. THE CHAIRMAN: So just explain to me again what they will get. You say the only difference in timing is they get a couple of weeks earlier? MISS LOVE: They will get the expert reports on liability from both sides. THE CHAIRMAN: They get both sides? 	4	the other one. Perhaps it is in very similar terms.
7MISS LOVE: The final version that is signed by everyone is behind tab 12.8THE CHAIRMAN: So that is the only one one needs to look at, is it?9MISS LOVE: There is also an Ocado one but that is rather different because they were only10seeking written closing submissions but that is at p.151.11THE CHAIRMAN: So the one I was shown at tab 4 is not a final – it is signed.12MISS LOVE: It is but it is not signed by everyone.13THE CHAIRMAN: It is signed by Stewarts Law, MdR and Jones Day.14MISS LOVE: Sorry, it is the signed one. First, we do say that you just cannot equate the15question about whether we would be prejudiced in adversarial proceedings by giving the16other side an extra year to polish their case on quantum with the implications of giving17another retailer sight of our evidence on liability a couple of weeks before the deadline for18the exchange of expert reports. All that there really is by way of difference is, first, this19two-week wrinkle in timing of 20 th May, and secondly, the closing submissions, the fact20that the closing submissions will be provided in one piece in the Arcadia application21THE CHAIRMAN: They will get all the quantum stuff too?22MISS LOVE: No, the expert evidence, which I think is the real meat of it here, the Crown Jewels23here, that is in two stages. They do not get ours at all. They do get MasterCard's but24only at the relevant time, Phase 2.25MISS LOVE: Arcadia do not get ours, they do not get ours at all. They do get MasterCard's but26only at	5	MISS LOVE: I think behind tab 12 you will see the Arcadia order at p.148.
 THE CHAIRMAN: So that is the only one one needs to look at, is it? MISS LOVE: There is also an Ocado one but that is rather different because they were only seeking written closing submissions but that is at p.151. THE CHAIRMAN: So the one I was shown at tab 4 is not a final – it is signed. MISS LOVE: It is but it is not signed by everyone. THE CHAIRMAN: It is signed by Stewarts Law, MdR and Jones Day. MISS LOVE: Sorry, it is the signed one. First, we do say that you just cannot equate the question about whether we would be prejudiced in adversarial proceedings by giving the other side an extra year to polish their case on quantum with the implications of giving another retailer sight of our evidence on liability a couple of weeks before the deadline for the exchange of expert reports. All that there really is by way of difference is, first, this two-week wrinkle in timing of 20th May, and secondly, the closing submissions, the fact that the closing submissions will be provided in one piece in the Arcadia application THE CHAIRMAN: They will get all the quantum stuff too? MISS LOVE: No, the expert evidence, which I think is the real meat of it here, the Crown Jewels here, that is in two stages. They do not get ours at all. They do get MasterCard's but only at the relevant time, Phase 2. THE CHAIRMAN: They do not get yours at all under this order? MISS LOVE: Under this order, no. THE CHAIRMAN: So just explain to me again what they will get. You say the only difference in timing is they get a couple of weeks earlier? MISS LOVE: They will get the expert reports on liability from both sides. THE CHAIRMAN: They get both sides? 	6	THE CHAIRMAN: One is behind tab 4, is it not, and one, as you say, is behind tab 12.
 MISS LOVE: There is also an Ocado one but that is rather different because they were only seeking written closing submissions but that is at p.151. THE CHAIRMAN: So the one I was shown at tab 4 is not a final – it is signed. MISS LOVE: It is but it is not signed by everyone. THE CHAIRMAN: It is signed by Stewarts Law, MdR and Jones Day. MISS LOVE: Sorry, it is the signed one. First, we do say that you just cannot equate the question about whether we would be prejudiced in adversarial proceedings by giving the other side an extra year to polish their case on quantum with the implications of giving another retailer sight of our evidence on liability a couple of weeks before the deadline for the exchange of expert reports. All that there really is by way of difference is, first, this two-week wrinkle in timing of 20th May, and secondly, the closing submissions, the fact that the closing submissions will be provided in one piece in the Arcadia application THE CHAIRMAN: They will get all the quantum stuff too? MISS LOVE: No, the expert evidence, which I think is the real meat of it here, the Crown Jewels here, that is in two stages. They do not get ours at all. They do get MasterCard's but only at the relevant time, Phase 2. THE CHAIRMAN: They do not get yours at all under this order? MISS LOVE: Under this order, no. THE CHAIRMAN: So just explain to me again what they will get. You say the only difference in triming is they get a couple of weeks earlier? MISS LOVE: They will get the expert reports on liability from both sides. THE CHAIRMAN: They get both sides? 	7	MISS LOVE: The final version that is signed by everyone is behind tab 12.
10 seeking written closing submissions but that is at p.151. 11 THE CHAIRMAN: So the one I was shown at tab 4 is not a final – it is signed. 12 MISS LOVE: It is but it is not signed by everyone. 13 THE CHAIRMAN: It is signed by Stewarts Law, MdR and Jones Day. 14 MISS LOVE: Sorry, it is the signed one. First, we do say that you just cannot equate the 15 question about whether we would be prejudiced in adversarial proceedings by giving the 16 other side an extra year to polish their case on quantum with the implications of giving 17 another retailer sight of our evidence on liability a couple of weeks before the deadline for 18 the exchange of expert reports. All that there really is by way of difference is, first, this 19 two-week wrinkle in timing of 20 th May, and secondly, the closing submissions, the fact 20 that the closing submissions will be provided in one piece in the Arcadia application 21 THE CHAIRMAN: They will get all the quantum stuff too? 22 MISS LOVE: No, the expert evidence, which I think is the real meat of it here, the Crown Jewels 23 here, that is in two stages. They do not get ours at all. They do get MasterCard's but 24 THE CHAIRMAN: Arcadia do not get yours at all under this order? 25 MISS LOVE: Arcadia do not get you	8	THE CHAIRMAN: So that is the only one one needs to look at, is it?
11THE CHAIRMAN: So the one I was shown at tab 4 is not a final – it is signed.12MISS LOVE: It is but it is not signed by everyone.13THE CHAIRMAN: It is signed by Stewarts Law, MdR and Jones Day.14MISS LOVE: Sorry, it is the signed one. First, we do say that you just cannot equate the15question about whether we would be prejudiced in adversarial proceedings by giving the16other side an extra year to polish their case on quantum with the implications of giving17another retailer sight of our evidence on liability a couple of weeks before the deadline for18the exchange of expert reports. All that there really is by way of difference is, first, this19two-week wrinkle in timing of 20 th May, and secondly, the closing submissions, the fact20that the closing submissions will be provided in one piece in the Arcadia application21THE CHAIRMAN: They will get all the quantum stuff too?22MISS LOVE: No, the expert evidence, which I think is the real meat of it here, the Crown Jewels23here, that is in two stages. They do not get that until the quantum hearing.24THE CHAIRMAN: Arcadia do not get ours, they do not get ours at all. They do get MasterCard's but26only at the relevant time, Phase 2.27THE CHAIRMAN: They do not get yours at all under this order?28MISS LOVE: Under this order, no.29THE CHAIRMAN: So just explain to me again what they will get. You say the only difference30in timing is they get a couple of weeks earlier?31MISS LOVE: They will get the expert reports on liability from both si	9	MISS LOVE: There is also an Ocado one but that is rather different because they were only
 MISS LOVE: It is but it is not signed by everyone. THE CHAIRMAN: It is signed by Stewarts Law, MdR and Jones Day. MISS LOVE: Sorry, it is the signed one. First, we do say that you just cannot equate the question about whether we would be prejudiced in adversarial proceedings by giving the other side an extra year to polish their case on quantum with the implications of giving another retailer sight of our evidence on liability a couple of weeks before the deadline for the exchange of expert reports. All that there really is by way of difference is, first, this two-week wrinkle in timing of 20th May, and secondly, the closing submissions, the fact that the closing submissions will be provided in one piece in the Arcadia application THE CHAIRMAN: They will get all the quantum stuff too? MISS LOVE: No, the expert evidence, which I think is the real meat of it here, the Crown Jewels here, that is in two stages. They do not get that until the quantum hearing. THE CHAIRMAN: Arcadia do not get that in Phase 2? MISS LOVE: Arcadia do not get ours, they do not get ours at all. They do get MasterCard's but only at the relevant time, Phase 2. THE CHAIRMAN: They do not get yours at all under this order? MISS LOVE: Under this order, no. THE CHAIRMAN: So just explain to me again what they will get. You say the only difference in timing is they get a couple of weeks earlier? MISS LOVE: They will get the expert reports on liability from both sides. THE CHAIRMAN: They get both sides? 	10	seeking written closing submissions but that is at p.151.
 THE CHAIRMAN: It is signed by Stewarts Law, MdR and Jones Day. MISS LOVE: Sorry, it is the signed one. First, we do say that you just cannot equate the question about whether we would be prejudiced in adversarial proceedings by giving the other side an extra year to polish their case on quantum with the implications of giving another retailer sight of our evidence on liability a couple of weeks before the deadline for the exchange of expert reports. All that there really is by way of difference is, first, this two-week wrinkle in timing of 20th May, and secondly, the closing submissions, the fact that the closing submissions will be provided in one piece in the Arcadia application THE CHAIRMAN: They will get all the quantum stuff too? MISS LOVE: No, the expert evidence, which I think is the real meat of it here, the Crown Jewels here, that is in two stages. They do not get that until the quantum hearing. THE CHAIRMAN: Arcadia do not get that in Phase 2? MISS LOVE: Arcadia do not get ours, they do not get ours at all. They do get MasterCard's but only at the relevant time, Phase 2. THE CHAIRMAN: They do not get yours at all under this order? MISS LOVE: Under this order, no. THE CHAIRMAN: So just explain to me again what they will get. You say the only difference in timing is they get a couple of weeks earlier? MISS LOVE: They will get the expert reports on liability from both sides. THE CHAIRMAN: They get both sides? 	11	THE CHAIRMAN: So the one I was shown at tab 4 is not a final – it is signed.
 MISS LOVE: Sorry, it is the signed one. First, we do say that you just cannot equate the question about whether we would be prejudiced in adversarial proceedings by giving the other side an extra year to polish their case on quantum with the implications of giving another retailer sight of our evidence on liability a couple of weeks before the deadline for the exchange of expert reports. All that there really is by way of difference is, first, this two-week wrinkle in timing of 20th May, and secondly, the closing submissions, the fact that the closing submissions will be provided in one piece in the Arcadia application THE CHAIRMAN: They will get all the quantum stuff too? MISS LOVE: No, the expert evidence, which I think is the real meat of it here, the Crown Jewels here, that is in two stages. They do not get that until the quantum hearing. THE CHAIRMAN: Arcadia do not get ours, they do not get ours at all. They do get MasterCard's but only at the relevant time, Phase 2. THE CHAIRMAN: They do not get yours at all under this order? MISS LOVE: Under this order, no. THE CHAIRMAN: So just explain to me again what they will get. You say the only difference in timing is they get a couple of weeks earlier? MISS LOVE: They will get the expert reports on liability from both sides. THE CHAIRMAN: They get both sides? 	12	MISS LOVE: It is but it is not signed by everyone.
15question about whether we would be prejudiced in adversarial proceedings by giving the16other side an extra year to polish their case on quantum with the implications of giving17another retailer sight of our evidence on liability a couple of weeks before the deadline for18the exchange of expert reports. All that there really is by way of difference is, first, this19two-week wrinkle in timing of 20 th May, and secondly, the closing submissions, the fact20that the closing submissions will be provided in one piece in the Arcadia application21THE CHAIRMAN: They will get all the quantum stuff too?22MISS LOVE: No, the expert evidence, which I think is the real meat of it here, the Crown Jewels23here, that is in two stages. They do not get that until the quantum hearing.24THE CHAIRMAN: Arcadia do not get ours, they do not get ours at all. They do get MasterCard's but26only at the relevant time, Phase 2.27THE CHAIRMAN: They do not get yours at all under this order?28MISS LOVE: Under this order, no.29THE CHAIRMAN: So just explain to me again what they will get. You say the only difference30in timing is they get a couple of weeks earlier?31MISS LOVE: They will get the expert reports on liability from both sides.32THE CHAIRMAN: They get both sides?	13	THE CHAIRMAN: It is signed by Stewarts Law, MdR and Jones Day.
16other side an extra year to polish their case on quantum with the implications of giving17another retailer sight of our evidence on liability a couple of weeks before the deadline for18the exchange of expert reports. All that there really is by way of difference is, first, this19two-week wrinkle in timing of 20 th May, and secondly, the closing submissions, the fact20that the closing submissions will be provided in one piece in the Arcadia application21THE CHAIRMAN: They will get all the quantum stuff too?22MISS LOVE: No, the expert evidence, which I think is the real meat of it here, the Crown Jewels23here, that is in two stages. They do not get that until the quantum hearing.24THE CHAIRMAN: Arcadia do not get ours, they do not get ours at all. They do get MasterCard's but26only at the relevant time, Phase 2.27THE CHAIRMAN: They do not get yours at all under this order?28MISS LOVE: Under this order, no.29THE CHAIRMAN: So just explain to me again what they will get. You say the only difference30in timing is they get a couple of weeks earlier?31MISS LOVE: They will get the expert reports on liability from both sides.32THE CHAIRMAN: They get both sides?	14	MISS LOVE: Sorry, it is the signed one. First, we do say that you just cannot equate the another retailer sight of our evidence on liability a couple of weeks before the deadline for the exchange of expert reports. All that there really is by way of difference is, first, this two-week wrinkle in timing of 20th May, and secondly, the closing submissions, the fact that the closing submissions will be provided in one piece in the Arcadia application THE CHAIRMAN: They will get all the quantum stuff too? MISS LOVE: No, the expert evidence, which I think is the real meat of it here, the Crown Jewels here, that is in two stages. They do not get that until the quantum hearing. THE CHAIRMAN: Arcadia do not get ours, they do not get ours at all. They do get MasterCard's but only at the relevant time, Phase 2. THE CHAIRMAN: They do not get yours at all under this order? MISS LOVE: Under this order, no. THE CHAIRMAN: So just explain to me again what they will get. You say the only difference in timing is they get a couple of weeks earlier? MISS LOVE: They will get the expert reports on liability from both sides. THE CHAIRMAN: They get both sides? 	15	question about whether we would be prejudiced in adversarial proceedings by giving the the exchange of expert reports. All that there really is by way of difference is, first, this two-week wrinkle in timing of 20th May, and secondly, the closing submissions, the fact that the closing submissions will be provided in one piece in the Arcadia application THE CHAIRMAN: They will get all the quantum stuff too? MISS LOVE: No, the expert evidence, which I think is the real meat of it here, the Crown Jewels here, that is in two stages. They do not get that until the quantum hearing. THE CHAIRMAN: Arcadia do not get that in Phase 2? MISS LOVE: Arcadia do not get ours, they do not get ours at all. They do get MasterCard's but only at the relevant time, Phase 2. THE CHAIRMAN: They do not get yours at all under this order? MISS LOVE: Under this order, no. THE CHAIRMAN: So just explain to me again what they will get. You say the only difference in timing is they get a couple of weeks earlier? MISS LOVE: They will get the expert reports on liability from both sides. THE CHAIRMAN: They get both sides? 	16	other side an extra year to polish their case on quantum with the implications of giving two-week wrinkle in timing of 20th May, and secondly, the closing submissions, the fact that the closing submissions will be provided in one piece in the Arcadia application THE CHAIRMAN: They will get all the quantum stuff too? MISS LOVE: No, the expert evidence, which I think is the real meat of it here, the Crown Jewels here, that is in two stages. They do not get that until the quantum hearing. THE CHAIRMAN: Arcadia do not get that in Phase 2? MISS LOVE: Arcadia do not get ours, they do not get ours at all. They do get MasterCard's but only at the relevant time, Phase 2. THE CHAIRMAN: They do not get yours at all under this order? MISS LOVE: Under this order, no. THE CHAIRMAN: So just explain to me again what they will get. You say the only difference in timing is they get a couple of weeks earlier? MISS LOVE: They will get the expert reports on liability from both sides. THE CHAIRMAN: They get both sides? 	17	another retailer sight of our evidence on liability a couple of weeks before the deadline for that the closing submissions will be provided in one piece in the Arcadia application THE CHAIRMAN: They will get all the quantum stuff too? MISS LOVE: No, the expert evidence, which I think is the real meat of it here, the Crown Jewels here, that is in two stages. They do not get that until the quantum hearing. THE CHAIRMAN: Arcadia do not get that in Phase 2? MISS LOVE: Arcadia do not get ours, they do not get ours at all. They do get MasterCard's but only at the relevant time, Phase 2. THE CHAIRMAN: They do not get yours at all under this order? MISS LOVE: Under this order, no. THE CHAIRMAN: So just explain to me again what they will get. You say the only difference in timing is they get a couple of weeks earlier? MISS LOVE: They will get the expert reports on liability from both sides. THE CHAIRMAN: They get both sides? 	18	the exchange of expert reports. All that there really is by way of difference is, first, this
 THE CHAIRMAN: They will get all the quantum stuff too? MISS LOVE: No, the expert evidence, which I think is the real meat of it here, the Crown Jewels here, that is in two stages. They do not get that until the quantum hearing. THE CHAIRMAN: Arcadia do not get that in Phase 2? MISS LOVE: Arcadia do not get ours, they do not get ours at all. They do get MasterCard's but only at the relevant time, Phase 2. THE CHAIRMAN: They do not get yours at all under this order? MISS LOVE: Under this order, no. THE CHAIRMAN: So just explain to me again what they will get. You say the only difference in timing is they get a couple of weeks earlier? MISS LOVE: They will get the expert reports on liability from both sides. THE CHAIRMAN: They get both sides? 	19	two-week wrinkle in timing of 20 th May, and secondly, the closing submissions, the fact
 MISS LOVE: No, the expert evidence, which I think is the real meat of it here, the Crown Jewels here, that is in two stages. They do not get that until the quantum hearing. THE CHAIRMAN: Arcadia do not get that in Phase 2? MISS LOVE: Arcadia do not get ours, they do not get ours at all. They do get MasterCard's but only at the relevant time, Phase 2. THE CHAIRMAN: They do not get yours at all under this order? MISS LOVE: Under this order, no. THE CHAIRMAN: So just explain to me again what they will get. You say the only difference in timing is they get a couple of weeks earlier? MISS LOVE: They will get the expert reports on liability from both sides. THE CHAIRMAN: They get both sides? 	20	that the closing submissions will be provided in one piece in the Arcadia application
 here, that is in two stages. They do not get that until the quantum hearing. THE CHAIRMAN: Arcadia do not get that in Phase 2? MISS LOVE: Arcadia do not get ours, they do not get ours at all. They do get MasterCard's but only at the relevant time, Phase 2. THE CHAIRMAN: They do not get yours at all under this order? MISS LOVE: Under this order, no. THE CHAIRMAN: So just explain to me again what they will get. You say the only difference in timing is they get a couple of weeks earlier? MISS LOVE: They will get the expert reports on liability from both sides. THE CHAIRMAN: They get both sides? 	21	THE CHAIRMAN: They will get all the quantum stuff too?
 THE CHAIRMAN: Arcadia do not get that in Phase 2? MISS LOVE: Arcadia do not get ours, they do not get ours at all. They do get MasterCard's but only at the relevant time, Phase 2. THE CHAIRMAN: They do not get yours at all under this order? MISS LOVE: Under this order, no. THE CHAIRMAN: So just explain to me again what they will get. You say the only difference in timing is they get a couple of weeks earlier? MISS LOVE: They will get the expert reports on liability from both sides. THE CHAIRMAN: They get both sides? 	22	MISS LOVE: No, the expert evidence, which I think is the real meat of it here, the Crown Jewels
 MISS LOVE: Arcadia do not get ours, they do not get ours at all. They do get MasterCard's but only at the relevant time, Phase 2. THE CHAIRMAN: They do not get yours at all under this order? MISS LOVE: Under this order, no. THE CHAIRMAN: So just explain to me again what they will get. You say the only difference in timing is they get a couple of weeks earlier? MISS LOVE: They will get the expert reports on liability from both sides. THE CHAIRMAN: They get both sides? 	23	here, that is in two stages. They do not get that until the quantum hearing.
 only at the relevant time, Phase 2. THE CHAIRMAN: They do not get yours at all under this order? MISS LOVE: Under this order, no. THE CHAIRMAN: So just explain to me again what they will get. You say the only difference in timing is they get a couple of weeks earlier? MISS LOVE: They will get the expert reports on liability from both sides. THE CHAIRMAN: They get both sides? 	24	THE CHAIRMAN: Arcadia do not get that in Phase 2?
 THE CHAIRMAN: They do not get yours at all under this order? MISS LOVE: Under this order, no. THE CHAIRMAN: So just explain to me again what they will get. You say the only difference in timing is they get a couple of weeks earlier? MISS LOVE: They will get the expert reports on liability from both sides. THE CHAIRMAN: They get both sides? 	25	MISS LOVE: Arcadia do not get ours, they do not get ours at all. They do get MasterCard's but
 MISS LOVE: Under this order, no. THE CHAIRMAN: So just explain to me again what they will get. You say the only difference in timing is they get a couple of weeks earlier? MISS LOVE: They will get the expert reports on liability from both sides. THE CHAIRMAN: They get both sides? 	26	only at the relevant time, Phase 2.
 THE CHAIRMAN: So just explain to me again what they will get. You say the only difference in timing is they get a couple of weeks earlier? MISS LOVE: They will get the expert reports on liability from both sides. THE CHAIRMAN: They get both sides? 	27	THE CHAIRMAN: They do not get yours at all under this order?
 30 in timing is they get a couple of weeks earlier? 31 MISS LOVE: They will get the expert reports on liability from both sides. 32 THE CHAIRMAN: They get both sides? 	28	MISS LOVE: Under this order, no.
 31 MISS LOVE: They will get the expert reports on liability from both sides. 32 THE CHAIRMAN: They get both sides? 	29	THE CHAIRMAN: So just explain to me again what they will get. You say the only difference
32 THE CHAIRMAN: They get both sides?	30	in timing is they get a couple of weeks earlier?
	31	MISS LOVE: They will get the expert reports on liability from both sides.
33 MISS LOVE: On liability non-confidential of course	32	THE CHAIRMAN: They get both sides?
	33	MISS LOVE: On liability, non-confidential, of course.
34 THE CHAIRMAN: Yes. On 20 th May?	34	THE CHAIRMAN: Yes. On 20 th May?

1	MISS LOVE: On 20 th May.
2	THE CHAIRMAN: Whereas you want me to order it after the experts have reported?
3	MISS LOVE: At the same time, we want it in parallel. We are talking about I think two and a
4	half to three weeks - two weeks. So there is the two weeks of timing on liability.
5	THE CHAIRMAN: But they are only getting experts' reports on liability?
6	MISS LOVE: Yes.
7	THE CHAIRMAN: And then you say
8	MISS LOVE: They are getting the written submissions at the same time for all of it.
9	THE CHAIRMAN: Everybody's written submissions, both sides?
10	MISS LOVE: Yes, but non-confidential, they do get the quantum part so there is generous yellow
11	ink on that.
12	THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, but they will not get that?
13	MISS LOVE: They will get the full set of closings, non-confidential.
14	THE CHAIRMAN: Including quantum?
15	MISS LOVE: The non-confidential part.
16	THE CHAIRMAN: Then what is it they do not get?
17	MISS LOVE: They will not get at any stage either confidential or non-confidential sight of our
18	quantum evidence. They will get MasterCard's.
19	THE CHAIRMAN: MasterCard's but not
20	MISS LOVE: Not ours.
21	THE CHAIRMAN: But not Sainsbury's quantum, expert quantum evidence.
22	MISS LOVE: Expert evidence, yes. They have already got MasterCard's witness statements
23	except for Mr. Abrahams', they are not asking for ours. I would also add, Sir, in relation to
24	timing on the quantum expert evidence, they are actually going to get it within seven days
25	of the exchange of the quantum expert evidence in the Commercial Court proceedings, so
26	they are not going to get a timing advantage, they are going to get it after they have already
27	got the expert evidence from the Commercial Court.
28	THE CHAIRMAN: It is only MasterCard's that they get.
29	MISS LOVE: It is only MasterCard's that they get, that is the critical point.
30	THE CHAIRMAN: They will get this only seven days after – what was it again you said? After
31	the exchange of?
32	MISS LOVE: Expert evidence on quantum.
33	THE CHAIRMAN: So they will get it some time in the autumn of 2017, or something like that?
34	I cannot remember the timing, but anyway.

1	MISS LOVE: A distant date. It is not the case that we are handing everything over to them in a
2	way the evidence where this whole issue bites most acutely, which is our expert evidence on
3	quantum, is not being given to them at all, and we are really talking in relation to liability.
4	THE CHAIRMAN: You say they are getting it two or three weeks earlier and that is it, yes.
5	MISS LOVE: Sir, this is not the fig leaf, this is not giving the lie to us, and this is not us selling
6	the past about it going to someone in proceedings against us.
7	Sir, unless I can be of further assistance?
8	THE CHAIRMAN: Just on this: can you make sure I have understood? I am not sure what your
9	limitations are entirely. Are you saying that they should only get – the limitations are
10	exactly, and should be exactly what you have given to Arcadia, is that a shorthand for
11	saying what you are asking for, by way of limitation in this application?
12	MISS LOVE: I was addressing the question whether these were fig leaves and we were
13	prejudicing them grossly. If I may, Sir, I am going to take some instructions on that. (After
14	a pause) Sir, I am informed that in relation to the closing submissions
15	THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, I am going to have to take a note of this to make sure I have understood.
16	What we are dealing with now is what you are saying the CAT should do today.
17	MISS LOVE: In relation to the closing submissions, we are happy to offer the whole non-
18	confidential version of those at the same time as the non-confidential of our expert evidence
19	on liability.
20	THE CHAIRMAN: Hang on, "We are happy to offer the whole non-confidential version" - this is
21	closing submissions - "to both Visas", at the same time as what?
22	MISS LOVE: The non-confidential versions of our expert evidence on liability.
23	THE CHAIRMAN: When is that though?
24	MISS LOVE: In relation to timing, we are sticking to 3 rd June.
25	THE CHAIRMAN: I am not going to worry about "at the same time", I am just going to say by
26	3 rd June.
27	MISS LOVE: I am informed that there are also, given the need to redact different things and the
28	non-identical nature of what we are already dealing with in the Ocado and Arcadia
29	applications, logistical issues here. As you have said, Sir, someone has to go through these.
30	THE CHAIRMAN: I know. The thinking behind that is that that is the date for exchange?
31	MISS LOVE: Yes, Sir.
32	THE CHAIRMAN: Therefore, it cannot be taken account of in their evidence. That is the
33	thinking, I suppose, is it, behind 3 rd June?
34	MISS LOVE: That was the consideration for going for that date.

1	THE CHAIRMAN: Does that not just push it forward to when they put in their supplementals?
2	Why is that such a concern? Why should they not take account of it earlier if they want to?
3	MISS LOVE: Sir, now there is a logistical issue, as I have just said.
4	THE CHAIRMAN: We will come on to that. How long do you think it will take to redact the
5	bits that are yellow?
6	MISS LOVE: We are dealing with the transcripts as well in relation to the Arcadia application.
7	My instructions are that 27 th May would be the earliest that we would be able to get this
8	material.
9	THE CHAIRMAN: I am a bit confused, what is the transcript point again? Miss Houghton, I do
10	not know, you are doing something with the Arcadia transcripts?
11	MISS HOUGHTON: (no microphone) We have agreed with them that they can have the
12	MasterCard confidential aspects of the transcripts, but the obligation is on us to create them
13	and give an example of confidential information. So we have to go through the 23 days and
14	thousands of pages worth of transcripts by next Friday, to create all
15	THE CHAIRMAN: You are doing that for Arcadia?
16	MISS HOUGHTON: For Stewarts, so we are going to be very busy over the next week.
17	THE CHAIRMAN: I see, so you have got another big job.
18	MISS HOUGHTON: And given their trial is imminent, three weeks away, it is more urgent to
19	provide Stewarts.
20	THE CHAIRMAN: But you still could do it by 27 th May - is that what you are saying?
21	MISS HOUGHTON: If pushed, we could probably get it done by the 27 th .
22	MISS LOVE: Sir, I think, to answer you, there was originally a feeling of parity with the timings
23	for exchange, but there is now a very acute logistical consideration, as you have just heard.
24	THE CHAIRMAN: That is closing submissions. That is the easy one, is it?
25	MISS LOVE: Yes.
26	THE CHAIRMAN: Then we have got witness statements of fact - that is one of the categories, as
27	I understood it?
28	MISS LOVE: Sir, that is a category that I do not believe Arcadia has sought, or not on our side.
29	They have got the MasterCard ones, so this is new territory.
30	THE CHAIRMAN: You do not object to supplying them, as I understand it, it is just a question
31	of timing? That might be an easy one too.
32	MISS LOVE: I think what we had in our draft consent order was that within seven days of the
33	date of the order we would serve a copy of the factual witness statements relating to

1	liability, redacted to remove confidential information. That is what they were going to get
2	anyway on our offer.
3	THE CHAIRMAN: Right, so you are offering
4	MISS LOVE: For liability.
5	THE CHAIRMAN: witness statements of fact, "We are offering", and therefore you want the
6	CAT to order, the statements so far as they deal with liability, because there may be some
7	that deal with both. I am trying to remember, but maybe not. You are offering statements
8	on liability
9	MISS LOVE: Within seven days of the date of the order was what we had offered.
10	THE CHAIRMAN: Within seven days. What about the statements on quantum?
11	MISS LOVE: We had offered to mirror the date for exchange of the witness statements quantum
12	in the Commercial Court proceedings.
13	THE CHAIRMAN: Mirror the Commercial Court proceedings - that means next year?
14	MISS LOVE: Yes, Sir, and also it goes to whoever would have had the Commercial Court
15	information. So as things stand that would be Mr. Jowell's clients, but not Miss Rose's.
16	THE CHAIRMAN: So you are not offering it to Miss Rose's clients, right. "Mirror Commercial
17	Court timing in relation to Visa Europe".
18	Then we come to expert reports. I think that is the third and last.
19	MISS LOVE: We have dealt with the liability stage.
20	THE CHAIRMAN: You have dealt with it - how do you mean?
21	MISS LOVE: That leaves expert reports addressing issues of quantum.
22	THE CHAIRMAN: That is the same as closing submissions, is it? They can have it
23	MISS LOVE: By the 27 th .
24	THE CHAIRMAN: by the 27 th at a pinch. So liability, 27 th May at a pinch. Quantum?
25	MISS LOVE: That is, Sir, I say where the real prejudice and the real issue of principle bites. The
26	offer remains as we had in para.4 of our proposed draft order, which is to parallel the date
27	for the exchange of the expert reports for phase 2 of the Commercial Court trial. So the
28	same date
29	THE CHAIRMAN: The same date as exchange for phase 2 expert reports.
30	MISS LOVE: In the Commercial Court trial.
31	THE CHAIRMAN: In the Commercial Court, i.e. some time next year.
32	MISS LOVE: I think the more neutral way of putting might be, "To whomever the Commercial
33	Court will be giving the parallel information in the Commercial Court proceedings".
34	THE CHAIRMAN: You assume it is not at the moment Miss Rose's clients as things stand?

1	MISS LOVE: Yes, Sir. That is what is on the table from us, Sir.
2	THE CHAIRMAN: That is your best and final - that is what you think we should do?
3	MISS LOVE: That is my position, Sir. I have explained the prejudice point, Sir, and I have also
4	explained the different nature of the phase 2 issues. I am not sure that we can take matters
5	much further.
6	THE CHAIRMAN: Thank you very much.
7	MISS ROSE: Sir, with great respect to Miss Love, the prejudice point has actually evaporated.
8	The reason it has evaporated is because Sainsbury's are no longer maintaining the position
9	as a matter of principle that their closing submissions or their expert report on liability
10	should not be provided to us until the date for exchange of expert evidence in the Visa
11	proceedings. What they have just said to you is that they are prepared to do it earlier, by
12	27 th May, and that the only reason they cannot do it sooner than that is logistics.
13	THE CHAIRMAN: That is the whole closing, quantum and liability?
14	MISS ROSE: That is the whole closing, Sir, and the expert report on liability. They have also
15	offered the factual witness statements on liability within seven days. So the whole of the
16	prejudice argument related to us getting advance notice of their expert report has gone.
17	THE CHAIRMAN: On liability?
18	MISS ROSE: On liability. Can I just focus on liability for a minute. Sir, the only point now on
19	liability is in relation to logistics. I want to say a number of things about that. The first
20	thing is that we raised this with them on 4 th April - that is well over a month ago. We have
21	been making it clear to them ever since in correspondence that the provision of the material
22	was urgent.
23	THE CHAIRMAN: How urgent is it really?
24	MISS ROSE: The reason it is urgent is because we want it to be available to our expert before
25	our expert finalises the report. Sir, you will have had an inkling - more than an inkling, I
26	suspect, from the MasterCard proceedings - that these are substantial pieces of work.
27	Therefore, to receive it on 27 th May, when the reports are to be exchanged on 3 rd June, is
28	going to be of very limited use, particularly as you will bear in mind that 1 st June is a Bank
29	Holiday. So that period includes a three day weekend. That is going to be of very, very
30	limited use to us.
31	Just dealing with the logistics point, first of all, we made the application on 4 th April. We
32	have been in correspondence with Sainsbury's since that date, and the objections they have
33	taken have been based either on confidentiality, which is wholly unmeritorious, because we have only ever asked for non-confidential material, or on this alleged prejudice point, which has now been surrendered.

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8 9

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18 19 20 21

22

23

24

25

26

27

At no stage until Miss Love was on her feet today has it ever been suggested by Sainsbury's that there was any logistical reason why the documents could not be provided by the date that we were asking for them, 16th May. No evidence has been put in on behalf of Sainsbury's to explain why it would take them so long simply to redact documents which already exist in both confidential and non-confidential versions, and indeed must do given the presence of clients who are in the confidentiality ring in the MasterCard proceedings. What makes this point even more extraordinary is that Sainsbury's have agreed to provide their whole non-confidential closing submissions to Arcadia by 20th May. What is the basis on which they contend that they can provide that document to Arcadia by 20th May, but cannot provide exactly the same document to us until 27th May? We can see it is the same document because if you go back to the consent order at p.149, you will see that they agree at para.2, by 4 pm on 20th May to provide their whole written submissions. We see at 5, "all documents served on the applicants pursuant to this order shall be redacted to remove information identified in these proceedings as confidential to the claimant". So if they can redact their closing submissions by 20th May and provide them to Arcadia, why can they not provide them to us on the same date? That is totally incomprehensible.

The same is true of the expert evidence in relation to liability. As you can see from para.2(b), they have agreed to provide that as well to Arcadia by 20th May. That is the critical material that we need by 20th May. It is the expert evidence in relation to liability and the closing submissions.

If they are saying they want another week to deal with the redaction of the expert evidence on quantum, we might be prepared to consider it, but it does not make any sense at all. We are asking for exactly the same material.

If Miss Love has got something else to say, I would like to hear it before I sit down. So if she has got something to say perhaps she could say it.

MISS LOVE: It may be my fault for not clarifying earlier, but Miss Rose's suggestion that they are one and the same documents that are being provided to her clients, Mr. Jowell's clients and the Arcadia ones, is not quite right, because, as I understand it, there are slightly different sets of redactions. Arcadia will be able to see the MasterCard confidential aspect.
It is our confidential material that will be black lined in the closings, whereas the version that would go to the Visa entities will have the Sainsbury's and the MasterCard information

1	that is confidential metasted. That to address this point that we have not the desument on d
1	that is confidential redacted. Just to address this point that we have got the document and
2	we sit with it for a week for fun is not right.
3	THE CHAIRMAN: This is something on which you will have to liaise with MasterCard
4 5	presumably? MISS LOVE: Yes, Sir.
5 6	MISS LOVE. Tes, SIT. MISS ROSE: On that basis there is simply no factual basis on which they can say to you that it
0 7	will take them an extra week.
8	For this to be raised in this way, it never having been raised in correspondence, during the
8 9	hearing, unsupported by any witness evidence and in the absence of MasterCard, is wholly
9 10	unsatisfactory, given that we have throughout stressed the urgency of this and our need to
10	have this material well in advance of the exchange of expert reports. It is completely
11	unjustified. Indeed, it is impossible to see why it would take them so long. The date is
12	13 th May. All of the confidential passages must already be identified. All they have to do is
13 14	go through it and redact it. It will take them an afternoon.
14	They find that very amusing, but the fact is that we have all done these tasks, and once the 15 16
10	passages have already been identified as confidential, that is what takes the time, it is simply a mechanical job to redact them from the document.
17
	If the real issue here is simply the MasterCard confidential information, then that could, at a
19 20	pinch, be dealt with by disclosure into a confidentiality ring as a fall-back position.
20	THE CHAIRMAN: I do not think we want to get too complicated.
21	MISS ROSE: My principle position is that this has just not been justified. It has never been made
22	out.
23	So far as quantum is concerned, with great respect the position of Sainsbury's is totally
24	incoherent. We are asking for these materials on the basis that we are observers of the trial
25	and we cannot understand what happened at the trial without seeing the submissions of
26	counsel and the evidence that was put to the judge. What on earth has that got to do with
27	the procedural directions for the conduct of a different set of proceedings? Nothing
28	whatsoever. Why does it make any difference to whether we have a right of access to that
29	material on that basis whether or not Mr. Justice Phillips ultimately rules that we should
30	exchange disclosure documents with Sainsbury's in the phase 2 trial? It is simply irrelevant.
31	THE CHAIRMAN: I think what it boiled down to, Miss Love's main point, was the prejudice
32	because they get it sooner than they would.
33	MISS ROSE: That point, as I have already indicated, is no longer being maintained in relation to
34	liability because they have agreed we can have it sooner. In relation to quantum, that point

1	makes no sense at all because, as you know, Sir, they are not suing my clients. Indeed, it is
2	Sainsbury's position, and you have just heard it enunciated by Miss Love, that the issues on
3	quantum are self-contained as between each claimant individually and the defendants they
4	are suing, because it will depend on their individual figures for the amount of MIF paid and
5	the position on
6	THE CHAIRMAN: I do not know what the relationship between Visa Europe and Visa Inc, but I
7	am not thinking of you as totally separate for the moment.
8	MISS ROSE: Sir, we are totally separate entities unless and until that situation should change.
9	THE CHAIRMAN: I take your point. It is a slightly technical point.
10	MISS ROSE: The point goes further, Sir, because they are refusing to provide this material to us
11	at all. They are not simply refusing to
12	THE CHAIRMAN: Exactly, so it does not matter. Timing is not their point at the moment.
13	MISS ROSE: Exactly, and there is no justification for that whatsoever, for the reasons I have
14	already given.
15	So far as what on earth is the prejudice, it is impossible to understand how they say they
16	will be prejudiced if we understand what their case is on pass-on sooner rather than later.
17	One can see why that might be highly advantageous to them.
18	There is a further point I want to make, which goes back really to the way that these cases
19	have been managed. They contend that applying the normal rules here, which is publicly
20	cited witness statements should be provided will prejudice them because of them because of
21	the subsequent proceedings. You have already had my submission that if that was their
22	position they ought to have asked for the proceedings to be heard in private. Having not
23	done that, they cannot say, "It is okay for the proceedings to be heard in public, so you have
24	heard the witnesses cross-examined, but you are not allowed to see the witness statements
25	on the basis of which they were cross-examined". That is an incoherent position. You
26	could say that, in fact, we are the ones who are prejudiced by the way these cases have been
27	managed in a way that has been wholly outside our control, because the effect of what
28	Sainsbury's have done is that we, Visa, have been excluded entirely from the Visa
29	MasterCard case, which is going to be the first occasion on which a domestic court rules on
30	issues such as, in principle, what are the effects of a MIF in terms of competition.
31	THE CHAIRMAN: You mean Sainsbury's v MasterCard?
32	MISS ROSE: Yes, we have been excluded entirely from a hearing before you, and therefore we
33	have had no input at all into the arguments that you have heard which are going to inform
34	your judgment. You could say that is a serious matter of prejudice to us, because a judgment will eventually be produced by this Tribunal into which we have had no input, but which is likely, almost inevitably, to be read by the judge who is hearing our proceedings. So what Sainsbury's have done is to seek to take for themselves the advantage of going first, but then also to seek to exclude us entirely even from understanding what happened in those proceedings and what issues were raised and what evidence was before the court for the purpose of then defending ourselves in the subsequent case that comes in the slipstream. We say that, actually, the prejudice is all the other way and that this court ought not to entertain the submissions that are being made.

The order that is being proposed is absurd in its complexity. The simple truth is that all the documents we are asking for are documents that are always provided by courts unless there is a very good reason why not. There is no such good reason here and they should be provided as soon as possible, and we say as soon as possible is 16th May, or, at the very latest, 20th May, which is the date on which they have agreed them to Arcadia. Any later than that is indefensible.

THE CHAIRMAN: Thank you.

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

12

13

14

15

21

25

26

27

28

29

30

31

32

33

16 MR. JOWELL: Very briefly, Miss Love says that they are not in breach of their standard 17 disclosure obligations, but the only basis on which she says that is that she mentions 18 confidentiality rings. Confidentiality rings are not a basis for resisting disclosure, and 19 certainly not when they concern your own confidential documents, and certainly not when 20 there is already a confidentiality ring in these proceedings into which they can disclose those documents. Now, we accept that it is not a matter for you, but it is a matter that does 22 completely scotch, as far as my clients are concerned, Ms Love's suggestion that we are 23 somehow getting these documents early. We are not getting them early, we are actually 24 getting them late.

THE CHAIRMAN: Yes?

MISS LOVE: I am not rising to reply to anything that you have heard, just a point of clarification following Mr. Jowell's reference to confidentiality rings. I am aware of exactly how popular this is likely to be, but I do have to reiterate that our offer that you have recorded was subject to the documents being disclosed into the confidentiality rings in the Visa proceedings.

THE CHAIRMAN: What possible justification can there be for that when they were heard in open court? It is only non-confidential aspects of them that are sought. I cannot understand why they should be disclosed into a confidentiality ring.

1	MISS LOVE: Sir, a couple of points. The first is that the equivalent documents will be going
2	into confidentiality rings in the Commercial Court proceedings in any event. That does
3	reflect that largely, even with redaction, they do contain a lot of information about our
4	business.
5	The second is that those instructing me see the ring as supporting the use restriction in that,
6	once the documents have gone, we have lost control of any meaningful way to police their
7	subsequent use. We do not understand what subsequent use there would be other than in
8	other MIF related proceedings, but the confidentiality and the use is flip sides, mutually
9	reinforcing sides of the coin.
10	Sir, I have heard what you have said. I do not think I can press it further, but I think it is
11	right to record that that is part of our offer.
12	THE CHAIRMAN: Does that apply to everything, all those categories of documents? Your
13	submission is that they should all be into
14	MISS LOVE: The offer we have made is that for phase 1 the documents go on the terms of the
15	phase 1 confidentiality ring; and the phase 2 in relation to the phase 2 confidentiality ring.
16	THE CHAIRMAN: That applies to witness statements, closing submissions and expert reports?
17	MISS LOVE: It does, Sir. I thought I should record for completeness that that aspect of our offer
18	has not been dropped.
19	THE CHAIRMAN: All into the relevant confidentiality rings existing in the Commercial Court?
20	MISS LOVE: Sir, yes.
21	MISS ROSE: Sir, can I very briefly respond to that?
22	THE CHAIRMAN: Yes.
23	MISS ROSE: It is quite obviously wrong in principle that any court should order that non-
24	confidential documents should be disclosed only into a confidentiality ring. There is no
25	basis for any such order.
26	THE CHAIRMAN: I think you have said it now. Is there anything else to say on that point?
27	MISS ROSE: Very little. What Miss Love says is that equivalent documents in the Commercial
28	Court proceedings will be disclosed into confidentiality rings. That is nonsense. Non-
29	confidential submissions
30	THE CHAIRMAN: I am not going to study the Commercial Court order.
31	MISS ROSE: Sir, the Commercial Court judgment
32	THE CHAIRMAN: We did it at the early stage.
33	MISS ROSE: Before they had been redacted?
34	THE CHAIRMAN: Yes, because they would not yet have had time

1	MISS ROSE: Then you take them out. What you then do is you take out the bits that are not
2	confidential. So there may be an initial provision of a whole document into a ring where
3	you cannot distinguish between the parts of it that are and are not confidential. Then you
4	refine so that by the time you get to the trial the non-confidential bits are in open.
5	That has already happened here, so we know this is non-confidential. That being so, there
6	is no basis at all on which it could be subject to confidentiality restrictions.
7	The restriction on use is also misconceived for the reasons you have already heard me give.
8	It is not appropriate to restrict the use of a witness statement or submission that has been
9	made in open court.
10	THE CHAIRMAN: I will try and give judgment now. If it goes on a bit too long so that tummies
11	rumble, then we may have a short break. Does anybody mind if we sit a bit after one
12	o'clock.
13	Judgment (sent for approval)
14
15
16
17
18 19 20 21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28
29 30
31 32
33 34	